BIOGRAPHIES OF GENERAL OFFICERS.

WILLIAM ALLEN MARBLE.

PRESIDENT GENERAL.

WILLIAM ALLEN MARBLE, son of Russel and Phœbe Almy Marble, was born in the village (now city) of Woonsocket, Rhode Island, on March 4, 1849. His paternal grandfather, Aaron Marble, and great-grandfather, Enoch Marble, both served as privates during the Revolutionary War, the latter enlisting at once on the receipt of news of the Lexington alarm. His paternal grandmother, Rebecca Putnam Marble, was a daughter of John Putnam, who was a captain in Colonel Larned's Regiment of the Massachusetts Militia, and marched with it on the Lexington alarm, April 19, 1775. His maternal ancestors were members of the Society of Friends, or Quakers, and consequently did not take any active part in the prosecution of the Revolutionary War. They were, however, prominent in State matters, and took an active part in local government.

Mr. Marble received the ordinary education of the district school in the town in which he was born, and at the age of fifteen years entered Friends' School, Providence, now the Moses Brown School, where he graduated in 1867, having fitted for college. Conditions, however, arose which made it advisable for him to give up the proposed college course and enter the mercantile world, which he did, becoming a salesman for a corset manufacturer. This vocation he followed for nearly twenty-five years, when he became the Vice-President and General Manager of the R. & G. Corset Co., one of the large factors of the corset trade in this country. He was one of the founders of the Merchants' Association of New York, and has been a member of its official board continuously, at the present time being one of its Vice-Presidents. He is one of the Trustees of the Moses Brown School, Providence (his Alma Mater), and Chairman of its Building Committee. He is Past Registrar General of the National Society of the Founders and Patriots of America. He became a member of the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution on December 14, 1894, and in 1903 was elected its President, which office he held for three consecutive years. In 1909 he became a member of the Executive Committee of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

R. C. BALLARD THRUSTON.

VICE-PRESIDENT GENERAL.

R. C. BALLARD THRUSTON, elected Vice-President General at Toledo, was born in Louisville, Ky., November 6, 1858; son of Andrew Jackson Ballard and his wife, Frances Ann Thruston, of that city. He occupies the unique position of being descended from those who fought on both sides in the Revolutionary War, one of his ancestors being an officer (not a Tory) in the British Army, stationed at Fort Pitt at the time of his marriage, and after the war was over he returned to England, where he died upon his estate. Six other ancestors fought in the Revolutionary War on the side of the Colonists, one of whom, at the age of eleven years and seven months, fought in his father's command in the battle of Perth Amboy, N. J.

He graduated at the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University with the class of 1880 and after a post-graduate course of one year first engaged in business in Louisville, but soon abandoned that life for one of scientific pursuits. In 1882 accepted a position on the Kentucky Geological Survey as Metallurgist and Assistant Geologist. Resigned in 1887 to engage in private work; in 1889 accepted a position as Superintendent of the Land Bureau of the Kentucky Union Land Company. In 1895 became manager of the Big Stone Gap Iron Co. Nearly all of his time since 1882 has been devoted to geology, mine engineering and metallurgy, especially that of fuels.

At his mother's request in 1885 added her name of Thruston to that which he had previously borne.

He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Forestry Association, local historical, scientific and social societies and at present Governor of the Society of the Colonial Wars in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Became a member of the Kentucky Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, January 17, 1890, and has always taken a great interest in historical, patriotic and philanthropic subjects.

WILLIAM TARBOX DEWEY.

Vice-President General.

William Tarbox Dewey, elected Vice-President General at the Toledo Congress, was born in Montpelier, Vt., September 30, 1852, the son of Hon. Charles Dewey and Betsey Tarbox. He is tenth in line from Thomas Dewey, and tenth from John Alden of the Mayflower. His ancestors in the Revolutionary War were Corporal William Dewey, Zachariah Perrin, Lieut. Solomon Orcutt and James Tarbox.

Mr. Dewey was educated at the Washington County Grammar School in Montpelier and, on August 1, 1870, entered the office of the Secretary of the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance Co. as assistant to the Secretary and continued in the position until May 6, 1891, when he was elected Treasurer of the company. This office he continues to hold as well as that of a director.

He is also one of the Board of Directors of the Wetmore and Morse Granite Co., The First National Bank of Montpelier, The Neshoba Lighting Co. of Brandon, Vt., and, for twenty-one years, Treasurer of the Board of Land Agents, as well as one of the Board. He was for many years an active member of the Volunteer Fire Department and held the office of President of the Volunteer Hose Company of Montpelier.

From September 28, 1880, to September 28, 1886, he was a member of Company H, Vermont National Guard, resigning at the latter date while holding the office of First Lieutenant. He has held the office of Village Trustee for the years 1885 to 1886 and was Chairman of the License Board in 1903.

He is a member of Christ Episcopal Church of Montpelier and a vestryman of that Church since April, 1900. He was, for several years, one of the Board of Managers of the Vermont Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, elected Vice-President in 1908 and its President in December, 1909, and has served as delegate to the National meetings at Denver, Buffalo, Baltimore and Toledo. He is also a member of the Montpelier Country Club, Lake Mansfield Trout Club, the Vermont Historical Society and the Society of Colonial Wars. Of this last Society he is one of the Board of Managers.

He was married November 9, 1881, to Alice Elmore French, of Montpelier. They have two sons, the elder, James French Dewey, Superintendent of the Dewey Woolen Mills at Quechee, Vt., and Maurice William Dewey, a student at the Lowell, Mass., Textile School.

Article III.—Membership.

Section 1. Any man shall be eligible to membership in the Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over, and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendered active service in, the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress, or of any one of the several Colonies or States, or as a signer of the Declaration of Independence; or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence; or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

SECTION 2. Applications for membership shall be made to any State Society, in duplicate, upon blank forms prescribed by the Board of Trustees, and shall in each case set forth the name, occupation and residence of the applicant, line of descent, and the name, residence and services of his ancestor or ancestors in the Revolution, from whom he derives eligibility.

The applicant shall make oath that the statements of his application are true, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

Upon the approval of an application by the State Society, to which it is made, one copy shall be transmitted to the Registrar General of the National Society, who shall examine further the eligibility of the applicant. If satisfied that the member is not eligible, he shall return the application for correction.

Until the State Society shall satisfy the Registrar General of the eligibility of such applicant, his name shall not be placed on the roll of membership.

SECTION 3. The official designation of the members of The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution shall be "Compatriots."

ARTICLE IV.—NATIONAL AND STATE SOCIETIES.

SECTION 1. The National Society shall embrace all the members of the State Societies of the Sons of the American Revolution now existing or which may hereafter be established under this Constitution.

SECTION 2. Whenever in any State or Territory in which a State Society does not exist, or in which a State Society has become inactive, or failed for two years to pay its annual dues to the National Society, fifteen or more persons duly qualified for membership in this Society may associate themselves as a State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and organize in accordance with this Constitution, they may be admitted by the Board of Trustees to the National Society as "The —— Society of the Sons of the American Revolution," and shall thereafter have exclusive local jurisdiction in the State or Territory or in the District in which they are organized, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, but this provision shall not be construed so as to exclude the admission of candidates residing in other States.

SECTION 3. Each State Society shall judge of the qualifications of its members and of those proposed for membership, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, and shall regulate all matters pertaining to its own affairs. It shall have authority to establish local Chapters within its own jurisdiction, and to endow the chapters with such power as it may deem proper, not inconsistent with the charter of the National Society or with this Constitution. It shall have authority, after due notice and impartial trial, to expel any member who, by conduct unbecoming a gentleman, shall render himself unworthy to remain a member of the Society.

SECTION 4. Each State Society shall submit to the Annual Congress of the National Society a report, setting forth by name the additions, transfers and deaths, and any other changes in the membership and the progress of the State Society during the preceding year, and making such suggestions as it shall deem proper for the promotion of the objects of the National Society.

SECTION 5. Whenever a member in good standing in his Society shall change his residence from the jurisdiction of the State Society of which he is a member to that of another, he shall be entitled, if he so elects, to a certificate of honorable demission from his own State Society, in order that he may be transferred to the State Society to whose jurisdiction he shall have changed his residence; provided, that his membership shall continue in the former until he shall have been elected a member of the latter.

Each State Society shall, however, retain full control of the admission of members by transfer.

SECTION 6. Whenever the word "State" occurs in this Constitution, it shall be held to include within its meaning the District of Columbia and the Territories of the United States.

SECTION 7. A Society may be formed in any foreign country by fifteen or more persons who are eligible to membership under this Constitution, which shall bear the same relation to the National organization as the State Society, subject to the provisions of this Constitution.

ARTICLE V.—OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES.

SECTION 1. The General Officers of the National Society shall be a President General, five Vice-Presidents General, the order of seniority among whom shall be determined by lot at the time of their election, a Secretary General, Treasurer General, Registrar General, Historian General, and Chaplain General, who shall be elected by ballot by a vote of a majority of the members present and entitled to vote at the annual meeting of the Congress of the National Society, and shall hold office for one year and until their successors shall be elected.

SECTION 2. The General Officers provided for in section 1, together with one member from each State Society, shall constitute the Board of Trustees of the National Society. Such Trustee from each of the several State Societies shall be elected annually at the Congress of the National Society, upon the nomination, or from a list of nominees, to be made by each of the State Societies and submitted to the National Society by the filing thereof with the Secretary of the National Society at least thirty days before the meeting of the Annual Congress of the National Society. And in the event that any one or more of the State Societies shall omit or neglect to make such nomination or submit said list of nominees, by the time herein required, then the President of the State Society so in default, shall, virtute officii, be chosen as and become the representative of his State Society upon said Board.

SECTION 3. The Board of Trustees shall have charge of, and be charged with the care and custody of all property belonging to the National Society, and to that end shall be vested with the powers conferred by section 3 of the Act of Incorporation of the National Society: Provided, however, That it shall not have the power to sell, convey, or in any wise encumber any real estate belonging to the Society without the assent of three-fourths of the members of said Board. The Board of Trustees shall also have authority to adopt and promulgate the By-Laws of the National Society, to prescribe the duties of the General Officers, to provide the seal, to designate and make regulations for the issue of the insignia, and to transact the general business of the National Society during the intervals between the sessions of the Congress.

Meetings of the Board of Trustees may be held at the call of the President General, or in case of his absence or inability, at the call of the Senior Vice-President General, certified by the Secretary General. Meetings shall be called at the request of seven members. At such meetings seven shall constitute a quorum.

SECTION 4. An executive committee of seven, consisting of the President General as chairman, and six members to be nominated by him and approved by the Board of Trustees, shall, in the interim between the meetings of the Board, transact such business as may be delegated to it by a Congress of the Society or the Board of Trustees.

ARTICLE VI.—DUES.

Each State Society shall pay annually to the Treasurer General, to defray the expenses of the National Society, fifty cents for each active member thereof, unless intermitted by the National Congress.

All such dues shall be paid on or before the first day of April in each year for the ensuing year, in order to secure representation in the Congress of the National Society.

ARTICLE VII.—MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

SECTION 2. Special meetings of the Congress may be called by the President General, and shall be called by him when directed so to do by the Board of Trustees, or whenever requested in writing so to do by at least five State Societies, on giving thirty days' notice, specifying the time and place of such meeting and the business to be transacted.

After the adjournment of the Eighteenth Annual Congress of this Society, State Societies shall be represented at meetings of the National Society only by members of their own State Society, either duly elected, or who in the absence of regularly elected delegates, may be chosen by the regularly elected attending delegates of such State Society from the members of such State Society who may be present at any meeting of the National Society.

ARTICLE VIII.—PERMANENT FUND.

SECTION 1. There shall be created and maintained a Permanent Fund of the Society, the income or interest from which shall be covered into the general treasury of the Society and available for the general purposes of the Society, but the principal of which shall be maintained intact, and shall only be used or diminished upon the unanimous recommendation of the Executive Committee, approved by the Board of Trustees, and ratified by a four-fifths vote of the delegates present at the annual or special Congress to which such recommendation of the Executive Committee shall be reported.

SECTION 2. The permanent fund shall be composed of all legacies or donations to the Society, where no other application of the funds is designated by the testator or donor, all commissions received from the sales of badges, rosettes and ribbon, and such sum or sums as may from time to time by the Executive Committee be transferred to such fund from the general funds of the Society.

SECTION 3. The permanent fund shall be invested in securities authorized to be held by Savings Banks in Massachusetts, Connecticut, or New York, and any premium paid in purchasing such securities shall be repaid from the first income received.

ARTICLE IX.—AMENDMENTS.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Compatriots, it is now my great pleasure and privilege to present to you the Honorable Brand Whitlock, Mayor of the City of Toledo, who will extend to you the welcome. (Applause.)

Mayor Whitlock welcomed the Congress to Toledo. He reviewed the history of the city, particularly its part in the War of 1812. He related some incidents indicating the patriotic spirit among the Hungarian children in Toledo and complimented the Sons of the American Revolution on the work it is doing to educate aliens in good citizenship.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL, after responding to the Mayor's address, read his annual report to the Congress, as follows:

ANNUAL ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT GENERAL.

COMPATRIOTS: Our by-laws make it the duty of the President General to present to you at this point in the order of business his "remarks on the condition and needs of the Society."

While the current year has not been marked by any unusual events in our affairs, it has been one of fair activity among all of the State Societies, and the record is such that we have cause to felicitate ourselves upon the past, and look forward with bright hopes for the future.

President General McClary made a special effort to increase our membership, to organize new Societies and rejuvenate some already existing that had fallen into bad ways. He succeeded admirably, turned the tide in the right direction, organized two new State Societies and showed a net increase in membership for his term. President General Stockbridge continued the good work, and in addition caused a thorough revision of the list of members to be made by the State Societies, and the dropping of the inactive members. In spite of the temporary loss from this purging of the rolls, he showed a net gain in membership for his term, and had to his credit two new State Societies. I have endeavored to follow the example of my immediate predecessors. Wherever I have gone I have urged the value of increased numbers, and I am able to report the formation of two new State Societies, Mississippi in the South and Nevada in the West. For the last three years our loyal and efficient Chairman, Dr. Guyer, has been unceasing in his efforts to form new Societies, and he has been warmly supported by his associates in the Colorado Society, Messrs. Keezer and Tuttle, and I cannot speak too highly of their work. I wish to keep before you the matter of local Chapters.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee, held February 24, 1908, Judge Stockbridge was appointed a committee to prepare a resolution looking to the formation of local Chapters under the authority of State Societies. He presented a resolution to the Buffalo Congress recommending the appointment of a committee to communicate with the State Societies and prepare a plan for the regulation of Chapters, which was adopted, and Dr. Moses Greeley Parker, of Massachusetts, Mr. Frank B. Steele, of New York, and Col. Isaac F. Mack, of Ohio, were appointed such committee. Subsequently, Mr. McClary, of Illinois, and Commander Moore, of the District of Columbia, were added.

The committee made an exhaustive investigation of the subject, gathered valuable statistics and drew up tentative forms for Constitutions, State and local, and by-laws, but have never agreed upon a plan to recommend to the States. They made a report containing certain recommendations, among which was that their special committee be made a standing committee, under the name of "Advisory Committee on Local Chapters," and this was adopted.

The committee has done considerable work during the year, and you will receive its report.

I beg to refer with hearty commendation to that part of the addresses of President Generals McClary and Stockbridge referring to this subject. I am aware that there are difficulties in the way of formulating a plan which can hope for universal acceptance. We have grown up under the plan which makes the State Societies the unit. Under this system only about one-quarter of our numbers are affiliated with Chapters. In only seventeen States do Chapters exist at all. Some would not care to join a Chapter, and any plan which could be at all acceptable must make provision for this large number of existing unchaptered members. On the other hand, I am persuaded that if a movement could be vigorously pushed to form Chapters it would bring us a large increase in membership, and we should accomplish infinitely greater results. Men are more interested in a local Chapter, composed of their friends and neighbors, men having like interests and who can work for things in which they have a natural and common interest, than in a State organization which meets annually in some distant city.

Mr. George Curtis Sterling, a member of our Connecticut Society, moved to Montclair, N. J., found only one member of the S. A. R. in the place and no Chapter. He organized a Chapter, by his own efforts, securing 158 members. In Lynn, Massachusetts, Luther Atwood, Registrar of the "Old Essex Chapter," has increased the Chapter from 40 to 156 members, making out nearly all of the papers and doing it all as his loyal contribution to the Society.

In Hartford County, Connecticut, there were 250 members of the State Society, but no Chapter in the county. Dr. Geo. C. F. Williams called a meeting at the Hartford Club, and a Chapter was organized, and it is growing rapidly, drawing in old members and new alike. In each of these places there is a revival of interest.

Of course, this entire matter belongs to the States. We can only recommend. But I hope the agitation will be kept up until some plan which will meet the varied conditions to the satisfaction of all shall be formulated and adopted. I want to give credit for the conscientious work of the members of the committee.

During the year the Official Bulletin has been issued four times, in May, October and December, 1909, and March, 1910, and has been sent free to every member of the Society. It has been in excellent form, containing full details of the doings of the National and State Societies, and has been a most valuable means of disseminating information and keeping up interest among our members. I recommend that the distribution be continued and urge every one to send to Mr. Clark such news as will be of interest.

This year, like those which have preceded it, has its long roll of deceased members. They number over 200. Time and space are insufficient to make special mention of many who are worthy of it. I must speak of Hon. John Goode, of Virginia, who was a silver-tongued orator of the old school; Gen. Thomas M. Vincent, U. S. A., Chairman of the Flag Committee; Chas. E. Adams, first President of the Massachusetts Society; Gen. O. O. Howard, U. S. A.; Gen. Edwin Franklin Townsend, U. S. A.; James H. Gilbert, Trustee for Illinois, and ex-Vice-President General.

As an offset to our losses by death I am able to report an unusual number of additions of young men who have joined our Society. Anyone attending our meetings or banquets is impressed with the fact that a large majority of those present have reached middle life or passed it, and is impressed with the necessity of endeavoring to induce our young men to join. The action of one of our most esteemed members in offering the insignia of our Society to that State Society which should add during the year the largest percentage of sons of existing members is especially to be commended.

As in the past, our relations with our sister Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution, have been most cordial. In many of the States their members join ours in the celebrations of patriotic events, and at banquets. Your President General, invited by the President General of the Daughters to attend the opening exercises of their recent Congress at Washington, and present the greetings of our Society, accepted and was accorded the most flattering reception as your representative.

The work of the Committee on Education will be reported upon by Col. Lyman, its efficient Chairman, and the report will show most gratifying progress.

The Committee on Information for Aliens has been very active. This has been one of our ablest and most efficient committees. Its Chairman, Commander Moore, is untiring in his efforts, and no avenue by which those whom we seek to help can be reached is neglected, and no opportunity of service is allowed to escape. There is an ever-increasing demand for our leaflets. No. 1 has been translated into fifteen different languages. Last December a bill was introduced into Congress, proposing to abolish the Division of Information in the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization of the Department of Commerce and Labor. This is the division which had assisted us in the distribution of our leaflets. If the bill had passed it would have put an end to the distribution. Under the leadership of Commander Moore, our District of Columbia Society presented a memorial to Congress against passage of this bill. They induced all of our State Societies to join in this memorial. The Daughters of the American Revolution joined heartily with us, and for the last two months memorials have been pouring in from Chapters of the Sons of the American Revolution and the Daughters of the American Revolution, and we believe our object has been accomplished, the division not only saved but strengthened.

The Flag Committee have suffered the loss of their Chairman, General Vincent, but I am informed that the prospect is excellent for additional legislation which will apply to the District of Columbia and the Territories regarding desecration of the flag. President Taft, in welcoming the Daughters at their Congress, spoke most approvingly of their efforts and ours to prevent this desecration of our country's emblem.

A bill was introduced into Congress last February authorizing the compilation of the military and naval records of the Revolutionary War with a view to their publication. I have received from the Society of Cincinnati a letter requesting our co-operation in securing its passage. I think our Society has already taken action toward the compilation and publication of the naval records, and I see no reason why we should not give the desired aid in this similar and extended scheme.

We have organized new State Societies during the year in Mississippi and Nevada. We still lack them in West Virginia and North Dakota, and I regret to say in three of the original thirteen States—North and South Carolina and Georgia. Our committees have made every effort in these last three, and while it would seem incredible, little encouragement has been received. There is an excellent prospect that one will be organized in the Canal Zone and one in the Philippines, and there has even been a suggestion for one in Canada.

Last November, in preparation for the meeting of the Executive Committee, I sent out a circular to the President of each of the State Societies, and in response received most encouraging reports. The condition of the Societies in general is first rate. There are some weak places where we must awaken interest. I have tried to keep in touch with the State Societies, and I am very grateful for the letters received. A President General can only visit a limited number of the Societies. Many hold their annual meetings upon the same day and this makes it impossible to meet them, and the great distances make it difficult to visit but a limited number of the States. I would advise that in selecting our Vice-Presidents General, care be taken to distribute them territorally, and that so far as practicable in cases where the President General cannot attend the annual meeting of a State Society, one of the Vice-Presidents General go as the official representative of the Society.

I have received during my term the cordial support of the members of the Executive Committee, of every general officer of the Society, and of the State Societies. The chairmen of the several standing and special committees have kept in touch with me and given me continual and full details of their activities. The Societies which I have been privileged to visit have made me most welcome, and extended to me the most delightful courtesies. I wish to thank them all, and here offer my strongest expressions of appreciation.

I am sure that it is an especial honor to fill this great office, and I shall carry through the remainder of my life the firm conviction that you have bestowed upon me a distinction which ought to rank among the most desirable that can come to an American citizen.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next order of business is the reading of the minutes of the last Congress.

The SECRETARY GENERAL: An abstract of the Proceedings of the last Congress, held at Baltimore and Annapolis, was published in the Official Bulletin for May, 1909, and the full proceedings were printed in the National Year-Book for 1909.

(It was voted that the minutes of the last Congress be considered as read and approved.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next in order is the report of the Board of Trustees and the Executive Committee, which I will ask the Secretary General to present.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES AND EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Board of Trustees elected at Annapolis on May 1, 1909, met in Baltimore on the same day at 6 p. m. at the Hotel Belvedere. An Executive Committee, nominated by the President General, was confirmed by the Board. Appropriations were voted for publishing the Official Bulletin; for the Year-Book; for the printing and distribution of leaflets for the information of aliens; and for the general expenses of the Society during the year, and action was taken in various matters as recorded in the Official Bulletin for May and in the National Year-Book for 1909.

On May 2, 1909, the Executive Committee met in Baltimore and considered various matters recorded in the May Bulletin and the Year-Book.

A second meeting of the committee was held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City, on November 20, 1909. At this meeting the action of a special committee in selecting Toledo as the place of meeting for the Twenty-first Congress was ratified and a Committee of Arrangements was appointed. The full proceedings of the meeting were published in the December Official Bulletin.

The Executive Committee met at the Hotel Secor, Toledo, on May 1, 1910, and considered various matters to come before the present Congress, including the establishment of a Permanent Fund; the founding of a National Park at the historic site where Washington crossed the Delaware during the War of the Revolution; and the erection of a memorial to Thomas Jefferson.

The Board of Trustees met at the Hotel Secor at 9 a. m., May 3, 1910, and reviewed and ratified the action of the Executive Committee during the year.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee on November 20, 1909, Treasurer General Burroughs and Commander Moore were appointed a Special Committee "to consider and report on the advisability and feasibility of establishing an interest-bearing permanent or endowment fund, the income from which should be used for such special purposes as might be decided upon by the Board of Trustees or the Executive Committee." This Special Committee considered the proposition and found it to be both feasible and advisable. In order that action might be taken at the present Congress the question was discussed by the District of Columbia Society and on February 22, 1910, there was adopted by that Society a resolution recommending that an amendment to the Constitution be adopted by the Annual Congress establishing such a fund. The Secretary General issued notice of said amendment on February 23, 1910, to the President of each State Society under the requirements of the Constitution.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee on May 1, 1910, it was voted to recommend to the Congress the adoption of said amendment, the phraseology to be recast so as to read as follows:

Renumber Articles VIII and IX of the Constitution so as to make them IX and X respectively.

Insert a new Article, to be numbered VIII and to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.—PERMANENT FUND.

SECTION 1. There shall be created and maintained a Permanent Fund of the Society, the income or interest from which shall be covered into the general treasury of the Society and available for the general purposes of the Society, but the principal of which shall be maintained intact, and shall only be used or diminished upon the unanimous recommendation of the Executive Committee, approved by the Board of Trustees, and ratified by a four-fifths vote of the delegates present at the annual or special Congress to which such recommendation of the Executive Committee shall be reported.

SECTION 2. The permanent fund shall be composed of all legacies or donations to the Society, where no other application of the funds is designated by the testator or donor, all commissions received from the sales of badges, rosettes and ribbon, and such sum or sums as may from time to time by the Executive Committee be transferred to such fund from the general funds of the Society.

SECTION 3. The permanent fund shall be invested in securities authorized to be held by Savings Banks in Massachusetts, Connecticut, or New York, and any premium paid in purchasing such securities shall be repaid from the first income received.

PERMANENT FUND.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: You have heard the report of the Board of Trustees of the Executive Committee. What action shall be taken?

(Moved and seconded that the report be received and placed on file.)

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: I arise for a question of information. In the report which has just been presented by the Secretary General reference has been made to a proposed amendment to the Constitution, establishing a Permanent Fund. He has reported it in full. Is this the proper time to act upon it, or at a later stage of the proceedings?

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: I am informed that the practice is not uniform. Sometimes recommendations in the report are acted upon at once and sometimes at a later period. What is your pleasure?

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: Then I make a motion that the amendment to the Constitution as offered by the District of Columbia Society, and slightly altered in phraseology by the Executive Committee, be adopted.

(Many seconds.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Compatriots, you have heard the motion. It is necessary that there should be a two-thirds vote in the affirmative, so when the vote is taken I will ask you to kindly arise.

(Motion adopted by a unanimous rising vote.)

Commander JOHN H. MOORE, of Washington, D. C.: The District of Columbia Society would like to have the honor and the pleasure of presenting this check for $100 as a commencement of the Permanent Fund. (Applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Commander Moore is very much in order. Are there any other contributions?

General GREELEY, of Connecticut: I will be responsible for the Society of Connecticut for $100. (Applause.)

Mr. WM. A. MARBLE, of New York: I will announce a contribution of $100 from the Empire State Society. (Applause.)

Colonel GUTHRIE, of Pennsylvania: I will announce for the State of Pennsylvania that we will add $100. (Applause.)

Judge ATWATER, of New Jersey: The delegates from New Jersey will be responsible for a check for $100 from the New Jersey State Society. (Applause.)

Mr. EATON, of Michigan: I will be responsible for $100 from the Michigan State Society. (Applause.)

Mr. THRUSTON, of Kentucky: I will also be responsible for a like donation from the Kentucky Society. (Applause.)

Colonel Bliss, of Illinois: Illinois joins the ranks with $200. (Applause.)

Mr. WALBRIDGE, of Toledo: Mr. President General, I will be responsible for Anthony Wayne Chapter in the sum of $100. (Applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Gentlemen, we have got lots of time for this kind of business.

Colonel HOWARD, of New Jersey: Inasmuch as some of the delegates have not arrived, and some of them may want to contribute, I move that this contribution question be taken up as unfinished business at a later time in the convention.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: It will be so understood by the Congress if there is no objection.

Judge STOCKBRIDGE, of Maryland: Before the list is closed the delegation from Maryland desires also to stand good for $100. (Applause.)

Mr. KEITH, of Minnesota: In behalf of the Minnesota Society, or perhaps if the Society will not back me up, I will add an additional $100. (Applause.)

Colonel I. M. MACK, of Ohio: I am not authorized to speak for the Ohio Society, but I think I will follow the suggestions made by the gentlemen who just offered $100, and I will guarantee $100. (Applause.)

Dr. GUYER, of Colorado: On behalf of Colorado I will be personally responsible for $100. (Applause.)

Mr. COLE, of Missouri: Missouri desires to come in for $100 for which I will be responsible. (Applause.)

Mr. DIX, of Indiana: On behalf of Indiana Society I wish to pledge $100. (Applause.)

Mr. MARBLE, of New York: I am advised by my Society delegates from the Empire State that they are not willing to be outdone by any State and they make their donation $200. (Applause.)

General GREELEY, of Connecticut: On behalf of the Connecticut Society we propose to make our contribution $200. (Applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Is there any other State that would like to raise their ante? (Applause.)

(At the Executive Committee meeting on May 4, Mr. Wentworth subscribed $50 in behalf of the Iowa Society, and Dr. Moses Greeley Parker, who arrived at the Congress on May 3, promised a contribution from the Massachusetts Society which was later made $200. The total contributions from sixteen State Societies and one local Chapter aggregated $2050.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next business in order is the report of the Secretary General, A. Howard Clark.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY GENERAL, 1910.

COMPATRIOTS: Your Secretary General is called upon at each annual Congress to report on the condition of such affairs of the Society as are incident to the duties of his office. In addition to recording the acts of the Executive Committee and the Trustees he carries on the correspondence pertaining to the general work of the Society. He is charged with the distribution of application blanks, circulars and general supplies to the State Societies. For several years he has edited and distributed the Official Bulletin in which is recorded various matters believed to be of interest to every member. He has also edited the National Year-Book and performed various other duties, all of which it has been possible to do only through the willing co-operation of the officers of the State Societies.

During the past year the entire organization has been in a flourishing condition. Two new Societies have been chartered, and the membership has markedly increased, and there has been general activity by the National and State committees and officers in promoting patriotic work.

It is not necessary here to review in detail what has been accomplished, for the facts have from time to time been recorded in the Official Bulletin and thus made known to every one of the 12,000 members.

The Committee on Information for Aliens has been active in placing in the hands of immigrants thousands of leaflets, telling them what this country stands for and what their duties and privileges are as naturalized citizens thereof.

The Educational Committee has co-operated with State Societies in various lines of patriotic endeavor and particularly in the award of medals to encourage among young Americans in the public schools the study of the country's history.

The Memorial Committee, the Committee on National Parks, the Committee on Records of the Revolution and other committees have all been active and their reports will tell of work accomplished during the year.

The Secretary General would recommend the continuation of the Official Bulletin as a means of keeping alive general interest in the Society's work. During the past year the Bulletin was issued in May, October, December and March, making a total of 136 pages. It was printed and mailed to every member at an expense not exceeding the appropriation of $1800 made for that purpose.

The National Year-Book for 1909 made a volume of 333 pages. It was printed in an edition of 750 copies and mailed to the National and State officers, the Trustees, National Committees and the delegates to the Baltimore Congress, and the few remaining copies were sent to those desiring them upon the payment of cost of mailing. The expenditure for the printing and distribution of the Year-Book was about one thousand dollars, an amount that it is hoped may be somewhat reduced for the next volume.

During no year in our history has there been so many enthusiastic celebrations of Revolutionary events. In Arizona, Texas, Louisiana, California, Washington, throughout New England, and the Western States the Societies have seemed to vie with one another in the delivery of scores of patriotic addresses on every suitable occasion as enumerated in the Official Bulletin. In Ohio, in Nebraska, in Iowa, Oregon and Washington special effort has been made to arouse and to keep alive the American spirit in the pupils of the public schools.

In New York there has been most commendable work toward the establishment of great natural parks in regions famous in the history of the Revolution. The Massachusetts Society has erected a "Bay" in the Cloister of the Colonies at Valley Forge and is promoting the erection of a monument at that historic camp in memory of Massachusetts soldiers, who composed 40 per cent of Washington's army encamped there in the winter of 1777.

The Maine Society proposes to erect at Oldtown a memorial to the Penobscot, Passamaquoddy and other Indians who rendered service in the Revolution. That Society has done commendable work in locating and marking the graves of Revolutionary soldiers buried in Maine.

A feature of particular interest, initiated by the Philadelphia Chapter a few years ago, is the proper marking of the graves of signers of the Declaration of Independence and several of the State Societies are engaged in carrying forward this commendable work. In Maryland the grave of one of the signers, William Paca, was found in a greatly neglected condition and the Maryland Society is about to erect a suitable memorial to that patriot, and to publish a volume recounting the deeds of each of the four signers from that State.

The New Jersey Society has been most active in many ways, particularly in increasing its membership and in the erection of monuments and tablets to commemorate historic events and the deeds of eminent patriots and soldiers.

In far away Nevada, the newest of our Societies, organized on Washington's birthday anniversary, is planning for the celebration of Bunker Hill day on June 17.

A feature of special interest and importance during the year has been the patriotic celebrations by local Chapters, particularly in Illinois, New Jersey, Colorado, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The result has been large additions to membership and an incentive to the formation of Chapters in other localities. A year ago the report to the Baltimore Congress by Dr. Moses Greeley Parker, Chairman of the Chapter Committee, showed a total of 78 Chapters with 2865 members. Two large Chapters at Hartford, Conn., and Montclair, N. J., have since been organized with more than a hundred members in each, and Chapters are being formed or are projected in Pueblo, Boulder, Fort Collins and Grand Junction, Colo.; Omaha, Lincoln and Fremont, Nebr.; Yakima, Olympia and other localities in Washington. The Painted Post Chapter at Corning has been incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. There can be no doubt but that a fuller development of the Chapter plan will increase the Society's numbers and influence.

The Secretary of the Illinois Society, in his annual report, says he believes that some general movement, fostered by the National Society, which would tend to create nation-wide interest in membership in the organization and which would be calculated to impress upon all our eligible citizenship something of the dignity, importance and value of membership, would be of great value.

Several of the State Societies have established permanent or endowment funds, the principal of which is kept intact and the interest used for special purposes. The Empire State Society has over $10,000 in such a fund, the income being used in the erection of tablets at historic points. The Massachusetts Society has permanent and reserve funds of some $7000, the District of Columbia Society more than $3000 and others are gradually accumulating such funds that must serve to perpetuate the organizations. The National Society is to-day called upon to establish such a fund by an amendment to the Constitution.

From Florida to Maine, from California to Washington and everywhere across the country and far out in the Hawaiian Islands, Societies of Sons of the American Revolution have been extending their patriotic influence in the making of good citizens and the promotion of sound American principles.

Respectfully submitted,

A. Howard Clark,
Secretary General.

The President General: In the absence of objection, I shall take it to be the sense of the Congress that the report of the Secretary General be accepted and placed upon file. Do I hear any objection? That will be considered the sense of the Congress. (Applause.)

The Treasurer General's report will now be read.

Treasurer General Burroughs: Mr. President General, I am afraid the incoming Treasurer General will have to increase his bond, with the large amount of money already subscribed for the permanent fund.

Mr. President General and Compatriots: The Treasurer General has the honor to submit the following report of the receipts and disbursements for the fiscal year ending April 25, 1910.

Colonel GUTHRIE: I move you, Mr. President General, that the report of the Treasurer General be accepted with thanks, and filed.

(Motion duly seconded and carried.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: We will next have the report of the Registrar General.

REPORT OF THE REGISTRAR GENERAL.

COMPATRIOTS: Your Registrar General has the honor to report to the Toledo Congress that during the Society year ended March 31, 1910, there was enrolled a total of 1064 new members representing forty of the forty-six State Societies comprising the National Society and making an aggregate of 21,528 members enrolled since the organization was founded on April 30, 1889. The new enrollments have been greater than in any year of our history. The losses by death and other apparently unavoidable causes have been heavy during the past twenty-one years, but there has been a steady increase in active membership during most of that period.

In 1895 there were thirty-one State Societies with 5878 members; in 1900, forty Societies with 9671 members; 1905, forty Societies with 11,425 members; and at the present date there are forty-six Societies with a net active roll on April 30 of 12,100 members. Two new Societies have been added during the past year, and two during the year preceding.

The detailed statistics for the several Societies on March 31, 1910, are shown in the accompanying table: Massachusetts takes the lead with 1638 active members; next the Empire State, 1351; followed by Connecticut, 1,081; Illinois and Pennsylvania each 576; New Jersey, 556; the District of Columbia, 517; down to the newest Society in Nevada with 18 members. The greatest number of new members have been enrolled in New Jersey, 167, followed by the Empire State 102 and Massachusetts 82. New Jersey's net gain has been 42 per cent, by far the greatest of any Society.

Two years ago a member provided as a prize a gold insignia to be awarded to the State Society that enrolled in proportion to its size the greatest number of sons of members. This object was to arouse interest in a new generation of patriots. At the Baltimore Congress this prize was awarded to the Michigan Society. During the past year 63 sons of members have been enrolled by thirteen Societies. In Colorado a father and three sons were enrolled; in Illinois five sons; in Oklahoma two sons of the Registrar; in Vermont three sons, two of them sons of Dr. Wm. Seward Webb, the second President General of the National Society; California two; Connecticut two; Iowa one; Kentucky three; Maryland four; Massachusetts five; Empire State 10; Rhode Island three; and New Jersey 20. The New Jersey Society has, therefore, taken the lead in arousing the patriotic spirit of the new generation of members of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Two hundred and fifty members have passed away during the year, 43 of them in the Massachusetts Society, 26 in New York, 22 each in Connecticut and the District of Columbia, 17 in Maine, 12 in Illinois, 10 each in New Hampshire and Vermont. Among the honored dead are enrolled the Hon. John Goode, orator and statesman; Gen. Thomas

M. Vincent, U. S. A., earnest in securing legislation to prevent the desecration of the flag; the eminent soldiers, Gen. Edwin Franklin Townsend and Gen. O. O. Howard; Charles E. Adams, ex-President of the Massachusetts Society; James H. Gilbert, trustee for the Illinois Society and former Vice-President General; and many other honored citizens who have finished successful lives and have left sweet memories for our Society to cherish. Several of those deceased were sons of soldiers of the Revolution, one of them, James B. McGregor, of Newport, N. H., who had but lately become a member, died on March 23, 1910, at the age of 108½ years, having been born at Newport, September 6, 1801. His father, Joel McGregor, a soldier from Connecticut in the Revolution, lived to be 101 years old. Compatriot McGregor was a man of large personal worth and high mental vigor and took pride in his membership in this Society. The oldest living member of the Society is Elijah Clark Sears of the Connecticut Society, born June 23, 1805.

Under the resolution adopted at the Detroit Congress in 1899, on the first anniversary of the victory won at Manila by our Compatriot Admiral Dewey, there have been awarded medals of honor to 693 members for patriotic service in the war with Spain. Sixteen were awarded during the past year as follows:

Seaman Arthur Knapp, Major First Louisiana Infantry.

Elmer E. Wood, Colonel Second Louisiana Infantry.

Marion Letcher, First Lieutenant Fifth U. S. Volunteer Infantry.

John Alexander Lockwood, Captain Fourth U. S. Cavalry.

John S. Fogg, Captain, Assistant Surgeon, U. S. Army.

Parker Cook, Lieutenant, Past Assistant Paymaster, U. S. Navy.

Raymond E. Whelan, Surgeon, U. S. Army.

Layton Fontaine Smith, Lieutenant, Junior Grade, U. S. Navy.

Will P. Hall, Sergeant Company I, Seventeenth U. S. Infantry.

James Rivers Waties, Colonel First Texas Volunteers, Brigadier General U. S. Army.

Anson Lee Bolte, Captain Company C First Illinois Volunteer Infantry, U. S. Volunteers.

Howard King Coolidge, Gunner's Mate, Third Class, U. S. Ship "Yankee."

Willis John Wells, First Lieutenant and Adjutant Second Battalion First Illinois Infantry, U. S. Volunteers.

John W. Black, First Lieutenant Company B, Third Regiment of Engineers, U. S. Volunteers.

Addison Ely, Captain Second New Jersey Volunteer Infantry.

Edward Pierson Holtenhouse, Captain First Wyoming Volunteer Infantry.

There have been engrossed and issued during the year 625 certificates of membership, a larger number than for any previous year. Several of the State Societies do not order certificates, although the National Constitution provides that every member is entitled to receive one. It would be of increased benefit to the National Society Treasury if every State would supply the certificates to its members.

The archives of the National Society are greatly increasing in volume and in historical value. The application papers of 21,500 members are arranged by States in standard file cases in numerical order and are made instantly available through the general alphabetical card index, which includes also a full index of all ancestors from whom claim is made for service in the Revolution.

From time to time during the past years the Congresses of this Society have passed resolutions looking to the early publication by the Government of the muster and pay rolls of the army and navy during the Revolution. A special committee has made good progress toward bringing about the completion at no distant day of a great reference index that will show in abstract the service of each of the 60,000 pensioners of the Revolution and his family record as contained in the pension claim. The historical value of this work will be enormous.

The War Department and the Navy Department have for years been gathering and indexing the muster rolls of Revolutionary soldiers and sailors, and during the present session of the Congress of the United States a bill is under consideration that makes definite appropriations for the preparation of this material for publication.

As stated over and over again in previous reports by the Registrar General, several of the original thirteen States have failed to preserve in permanent form the records of their soldiers in the Revolution. Almost nothing is available in document form for North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Rhode Island or Delaware. Even New Jersey has no adequate published record of her patriots.

One of the most important results accomplished by the Sons of the American Revolution was the passage of the Act of Congress approved July 27, 1892, introduced in the Senate by our Compatriot the late Senator Redfield Proctor, President of the Vermont Society, providing for the transfer of all Revolutionary muster rolls and pay rolls in possession of the various executive departments to the custody of the War Department, where they have been indexed and thus rendered available in furnishing information to all those who may want to know what their ancestors did toward the establishment of independence.

It is eminently proper that at each annual Congress the Society should recall with pride the fact that so many of the leaders of American affairs, leaders in statesmanship, in law, in medicine, in philanthropic, ecclesiastical and educational undertakings, in mercantile life, in engineering achievements, in labors for the development of peace, and in the preservation of peace through military and naval service, are enrolled as compatriots of the Sons of the American Revolution. It is proper that we point to our compatriots who have held the highest political office in the gift of the nation, William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, to many of our number who have won international fame through their patriotic labors in the halls of Congress, to those who won eminence in the Supreme Court of the United States and have passed away, to that esteemed compatriot the Governor of the Empire State who is about to sit in that great court of the nation, to that great philanthropist who is devoting so many millions of his almost boundless wealth to the betterment of the people's education, health and general welfare, to bishops and other eminent divines who as Sons of the American Revolution have preached patriotism from the pulpits of our land, to the Admirals of the Navy and Generals of the Army who have carried the American flag to victory, to presidents of universities and Governors of Commonwealths who guide in educational and political affairs. We are proud to know that so many men of national and international reputation are in our ranks, and we are proud as well that Sons of the American Revolution in humbler walks of life throughout this country are worthy examples of good citizenship, that their influence is everywhere being exerted to promote the true American principles established by their ancestors. The numbers in our ranks should be increased that our influence may be greater. Your Registrar General is eager to give of his time and his energy in his sphere of duty to promote this great organization. He calls upon the delegates to this Congress to go to their homes and arouse such an enthusiasm among the thousands of lineal descendants of patriots of the Revolution who are not now in our organization that shall lead them speedily to seek the enrollment of their names in the archives of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Respectfully submitted,

A. Howard Clark,
Registrar General.

Mr. Dewey: I move that the report be accepted and placed on file.

(Motion duly seconded and carried.)

The President General: The next in order is the report of the Historian General, and in his absence the Secretary General will present it.

The Secretary General: The Historian General, Mr. Walter K. Watkins, is not present at the Congress, but has submitted as his report an interesting history of the Committees of Safety, Councils of Safety, Committees of Correspondence, Inspection and Observation in the several States during the War of the Revolution.

Judge Stockbridge: I move that the reading of the report be dispensed with and that it be printed in full in the proceedings of the Congress.

(Motion duly seconded and carried.)

REPORT OF THE HISTORIAN GENERAL.

Walter Kendall Watkins.

A majority of the members of the Sons of the American Revolution base their eligiblity to membership on the services of ancestors in the military or naval forces of the colonies during the period of the Revolution. One of the objects of the Society is "to perpetuate the memory of the men who by their services or sacrifices during the War of the American Revolution achieved the independence of the American people."

Among the services likewise recognized by the Constitution is that of "a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence." One who may review the doings of the various committees of correspondence and safety in the Colonies and towns therein will be forcibly impressed with the value of the services performed and the character of the men composing the committees.

The origin and growth of these committees show their value in directing the struggle and furnishing the military and naval forces and the supplies necessary to their maintenance. The Stamp Act in 1765, its repeal in 1766, the seizure of the sloop "Liberty" at Boston in 1768 and the landing there of British troops the same year, culminated in a Provincial Convention at Faneuil Hall in September, 1768, and in protests to the King and removal of Governor Bernard. In 1770 occurred the Boston Massacre, followed by various Acts of Parliament, infringing and violating the rights of the Colonists.

In October, 1772, Governor Hutchinson, having refused to call a session of the General Assembly of Massachusetts, to discuss the situation, the inhabitants of Boston, in town meeting assembled, received the refusal of the governor and voted, on motion of Samuel Adams, to form a Committee of Correspondence of twenty-one, to state the rights of the Colonists as men, Christians and subjects. Also to communicate and publish the same to the several towns of the province and to the world, with the infringements and violations thereof, and requesting of each town a free communication of their sentiments. At a special town meeting, November 20, the committee presented a report under three heads. The first, entitled "State of the Rights of the Colonists and of this Province in Particular," was composed by Samuel Adams. The second part, a "List of the Infringements and Violations of those Rights," was written by Dr. Joseph Warren. The third part, "A Letter of Correspondence to the other Towns," was written by Dr. Benjamin Church.

The report was adopted without opposition at ten in the evening with three hundred present, and was ordered to be printed as a pamphlet and the Committee of Correspondence were directed to dispose of the edition of six hundred copies among the select men of the towns of the province, and such other gentlemen as the committee should think fit. Governor Hutchinson, who never let slip an opportunity to deride the patriots, in a letter to former Governor Powell described the committee as composed in part of "deacons, atheists and black-hearted fellows whom one would not choose to meet in the dark." The pamphlet of thirty-six pages was printed by Edes & Gill, in the same room that was occupied, half a century earlier, by Benjamin Franklin to print the "New England Courant."

The pamphlet was distributed in December, 1772, and later an edition was also printed in Boston by T. & J. Fleet. One was also printed in Dublin and one in London by Dr. Franklin.

By the first of January, 1773, the towns in the vicinity of Boston held town meetings to consider the pamphlet and reply as requested. Later in the year, and especially during the summer months, the circular from the Boston Committee of Correspondence had reached towns in the other Colonies, and been acted upon with more or less dispatch, and in many cases a Committee of Correspondence was appointed to reply.

One of the Boston pamphlets was sent to Virginia, and March 12, 1773, in the House of Burgesses, a resolution, prepared by Richard Henry Lee, was passed creating a Committee of Correspondence and Inquiry of Eleven, to maintain a correspondence with the other Colonies.

A letter giving their action was at once sent to the other Colonies. This brought a quick response from the legislatures of the New England Colonies, which in May and June appointed committees of correspondence in their several bodies. The rest of the Colonies followed during the year, except New Jersey, which acted on March 16, 1774, and Pennsylvania and New York, that shortly followed in the appointment of committees.

The original records of the Massachusetts committee kept by William Heath are preserved in the Boston Public Library.

In the issue of the "Boston Gazette" of March 15, 1773, was an article extending through five columns, "Proposals for the Good of the Colonies, by a Philadelphian." This proposed that the Colonies should send deputies annually to form a court to manage general affairs.

On March 5, 1773, Benjamin Church, in his oration on the Boston Massacre, said "that a future Congress would be the future salvation of America."

Through the committees the idea of a union culminated in the summer of 1774 in a call for a Congress at Philadelphia. In July the Connecticut Committee of Correspondence appointed delegates to the Congress agreeable to a vote of their assembly the previous month.

At the same time the committee in New York were endeavoring to elect delegates, but were much obstructed by the loyalist element.

In the other Colonies delegates were elected by the legislatures or citizens through the exertions of the Committees of Correspondence.

The Continental Congress met in Philadelphia in September, 1774. In the next month, on the twentieth, an "Association" was adopted. It consisted of fourteen articles. Among the objects enumerated were the non-importation of goods from Great Britain, abolition of the slave trade, non-consumption of tea, etc. On November 7 the Congress voted that a committee be chosen in every county, city and town of the Colonies, by those qualified to vote for representatives, to observe the conduct of persons as to the "Association," which had been printed and distributed throughout the Colonies. Persons not subscribing to it were to be condemned as public enemies.

Agreeable to this action the towns appointed "a Committee of Inspection" or "Observation." Their duty was to find out any men or women who exposed for sale tea or newly imported goods.

If they refused to sign and keep the covenant not to sell, they were given several days to sign or leave town, and on further refusal their names were posted in the public houses and entered in the town records.

The Committees of Inspection varied in size from half a dozen in the smaller towns to a committee of sixty in New York City.

On September 1, 1774, writs were issued in Massachusetts for a meeting of delegates, from the towns of that province, to meet at Salem on October 5, to hold a congress to take the place of the former general court of the province.

On October 26 it discussed a report of a Committee of Thirteen, one from each county, and two from Suffolk, "on the defence and safety of the province."

It discussed the action of the British troops sent to Salem, their occupation of Boston and the seizure there of ammunition in the arsenal and in private hands.

The result was a resolution that the "Committee of Safety" be continued to observe any persons that attempt the destruction or invasion of the province and for the prevention of such purpose and for the safety and defence of the inhabitants they were authorized to alarm and muster the militia or such of them as they judged proper.

By this authority were formed throughout the province the companies of "Minute Men" to march at short notice, each armed with a gun, bayonet, cartridge box and thirty-six rounds of ammunition. Men freed by old age from service in the militia were formed in "alarm companies." We find, therefore, on the rolls of the companies that responded on the Alarm of April 19, 1775, at Lexington and Concord, the names of nearly all the patriots of Massachusetts. Those who had reached manhood and were not enrolled on this "alarm" were absent from sickness or else were not in sympathy with the patriot cause.

The commencement of hostilities in the vicinity of Boston awakened the Colonies and the Continental Congress to similar action. The Provincial Congress of South Carolina had in April, 1775, appointed a Council of Safety to certify militia commissions. In May, 1775, Rhode Island had a Committee of Safety, consisting of one from each county and two from Providence. The Pennsylvania Assembly in June, 1775, had appointed a Committee of Safety of Twenty-Five, whose powers later were transferred to a Council of Safety.

The Continental Congress on Tuesday, July 18, 1775, "recommended to each Colony to appoint a Committee of Safety, to superintend and direct all matters necessary for the security and defence of their respective Colonies, in the recess of their assemblies and conventions."

New Hampshire had such a committee, which performed both the executive and legislative duties during the recess.

In August, 1775, Virginia, in a convention of delegates from the counties and corporated towns, appointed a Committee of Eleven to perform the executive duties in carrying out the resolves and orders of the convention.

New Jersey, by act of the assembly, made the governor and twelve a Council of Safety. The Maryland Convention, at Annapolis, in August, 1775, appointed a Council of Safety of Sixteen to direct and control the militia, and under its direction County Committees of Observation were organized to co-operate with the General Council of Safety.

In North Carolina there was a Provincial Council, consisting of the governor and two from each of six districts. This body had the direction of the military. In each of the districts was a "Committee of Safety" of a president and twelve members. In addition there was "a county and town committee" in each district, twenty-one for the county and fifteen in each town. The duties of this committee was that of inspection and observation.

As the struggle continued and the loyalists left the provinces their estates were seized and sold by a Committee of Confiscation or as was appointed in Boston early in 1777 a "Committee of Sequestration," composed of one from each ward.

It is interesting to note that during the political discontent in 1779 and 1780 there were formed in England "Committees of Association and Correspondence."

This review of the subject shows to a small extent the organization incident to the war by the patriots. Through the work of these committees independence was achieved and we have inherited the country and its institutions. To preserve these we can with profit organize our present-day committees for the education of the alien and the restriction of undesirable immigration. Our Committees of Correspondence and Observation could, through the Society, do a great amount of work in the interests of good government and the preservation of the natural resources of our inheritance.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: That completes, compatriots, the list of reports from the National officers. Next come the reports of the standing committees, and I will call them in the order in which they are printed in the Year-Book. We have had the report of the Executive Committee. The first report then in order is the Committee on Auditing and Finance. Will the Chairman present that report?

Mr. DeCaindry: The report of the Auditing Committee was endorsed upon the report of the Treasurer General and has been read by him. I desire to say that the accounts are very neatly and accurately kept. (Applause.)

The President General: The next is the report of the Memorial Committee. I will ask Major Veale to report.

Major Veale: Mr. President and gentlemen, I will ask the Secretary of the committee, Professor Arthur B. Bibbins, of Baltimore, to read the report.

REPORT OF THE MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

Major Moses Veale, Chairman, Philadelphia, Pa.; Edward C. Battis, Salem, Mass.; Prof. Arthur B. Bibbins, Baltimore, Md.; Hon. Isaac W. Brooks, Torrington, Conn.; Frederick H. Clarke, East Orange, N. J.; Hon. Edward A. Butler, Rockland, Me.; Arthur Preston Sumner, Providence, R. I.; Gen. Clinton L. Riggs, Baltimore, Md.

The Memorial Committee of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution submit to the National Congress the following report and recommend the adoption of the suggestions in said report:

1st. The preparation by each of the thirteen original States of a memorial of the signers of the Declaration of Independence who represented those States; such memorial to be an octavo and including a concise and accurate account of the more significant events in the career of each signer, together with a bibliography, and possibly selections from some of their more notable utterances. Matters of ancestry and posterity should be briefly touched upon and the wives of the signers should receive due recognition.

The illustrations should include the most authentic portraits of the signers, with possibly those of their wives, where the latter are available, with fac-simile signatures. Views of their dwellings, birth places, graves and other notable structures or objects associated with the signers should be added. Fac-similes of significant letters might also be acceptable, but the number of illustrations should not much exceed five for each signer. Such related documents, as for example, the "Maryland Bill of Rights" and the "Harford Declaration" of Maryland, should also appear in the local volumes.

The cost of these local volumes should be borne by each State Society and the number to be issued and other matters of detail should be left to each State. All work, however, should be done along the same lines so as to be useful in publishing the compiled book referred to later.

2d. As soon as the memorials of all the thirteen States are completed, or at the end of some definite period, a general volume should be issued by the National Society. This work could be edited by a special committee representing the National Society and could be compiled from the matter included in the local volumes, eliminating such reading matter and illustrations as might be considered of local interest only.

The general volume should also include a fac-simile of the Declaration and views of Independence Hall, the Liberty Bell, exterior and interior views with furniture and other matters associated with the signers—the expense of this publication to be borne by the National Society.

3d. We favor the locating and marking of all signers' graves and the erection of appropriate monuments, where such are wanting.

4th. We also favor the identification of as many as possible of the graves of those who gave form to that immortal document, though not appearing among the signers of it, Revolutionary officers and soldiers and the marking of their graves with the markers furnished by the Federal Government, this work to be done by the State Societies and reports made annually to the National Society.

5th. We also recommend that State Societies should be reminded that all graves of their deceased compatriots should be promptly marked and adequate memorials furnished for publication in the Bulletin without delay.

6th. We favor the restoration of structures intimately associated with the signers (or those who bore an active and prominent part in connection with the Declaration) as landmarks, and the utilization of the same where practicable for patriotic purposes.

7th. We favor the awarding of medals to the public school pupils for the best essays upon subjects relating to the founding of our republic.

(Motion that the report be referred to the incoming Executive Committee for such action as it may find wise in regard to the recommendations therein contained.)

(Motion duly seconded and carried.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the report of the Committee on Organization, and for convenience that committee has been divided into the Committee North and West and the Committee South. I will ask Dr. Guyer to report for North and West.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON ORGANIZATION: NORTH AND WEST.

Dr. Clarkson N. Guyer, Chairman, Denver, Colo.; Frank Merriam Keezer, Denver, Colo.; Col. A. S. Hubbard, San Francisco, Cal.; Lieut. Col. M. W. Wood, U. S. A., Boise, Idaho; Henry B. Patten, Cheyenne, Wyo.; George Williams Bates, Detroit, Mich.; William T. Dewey, Montpelier, Vt.

COMPATRIOTS: As Chairman of Committee on Organization for North and West, I have the honor to submit the following report of its work for the year ending April 30, 1910:

The committee has this year prepared and sent out over four hundred typewritten letters, some of them second letters.

North Dakota is yet to be organized, but our committee has been active in preparing it for organization, which we hope will be effected very soon; and also the re-organization of South Dakota. The distances seem so great in the West: the country is so new and sparsely settled, that there are many retarding influences which can only be overcome by patient work and unavoidable expense.

On Saturday night, February 19 last, we organized at Reno, Nev., the Nevada State Society with 19 members. This makes four State Societies organized since the Denver Congress in 1907—the other three being Wyoming, New Mexico and Idaho. The public spirit of the Nevada compatriots responded finely to appeals made to them.

On account of the proverbial long delays of mountain travel, it was necessary for the committee to arrive in Reno a day before the time set for the organization. Col. A. S. Hubbard, of the California Society, and Compatriot Keezer, of the Colorado Society, helped to make the occasion a memorable one. In honor of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Nevada compatriots made it possible for Joseph F. Tuttle, Jr., of the Colorado Society, to occupy the platforms of the Methodist and Congregational churches the next day (Sunday). He spoke to crowded houses morning and evening. The spirit of '76 was much in evidence that Sunday in the beautiful city of Reno, and invitations were accepted by your Chairman to address two Sunday schools of the city.

In regard to organizing a Chapter in the Philippines I at once, upon receipt of communication from Executive Committee, entered into correspondence with the party, but up to this date have received nothing in reply.

The California Society, at San Francisco, made the committee its guests at their banquet on the evening of February 22d at the St. Francis Hotel, an occasion which was graced with the presence of many members of the Society of Colonial Dames and the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Laird, of the Daughters, and Mrs. Brown, of the Dames, Regents respectively of their State Societies, were upon the program that evening. Vice-President General Sargeant of the National Society closed the exercises with a very able and fitting address upon George Washington.

Your committee had the great pleasure of meeting with the Los Angeles Chapter of the California Society, arranged by General Chandler, its President, and Mr. Warren, Secretary. I confidently look for good results for our Society from that meeting.

After the organization of the Nevada Society, the members of the organization committee paid their own personal expenses while in California.

At the present time I am stopping in Southern California on account of the illness of my wife. There may not be any work of State organizations to be effected there, but I am doing the best in me to keep our Society in the public notice.

It was exceedingly pleasant on the Sunday evening preceding Lexington and Concord Day, to hear Dr. Day, in the First Congregational Church at Los Angeles, refer several times in his discourse to the Sons of the American Revolution. It was a service arranged by your Chairman, and you will be pleased to know that our Society is receiving its share of public attention.

On Arbor Day I was asked to officially participate in the exercises, and planted a tree in the name of the Ancestors of the Sons of the American Revolution.

On the evening of April 19, at Los Angeles, the Chamber of Commerce gave a most elaborate function to the Sons of the American Revolution and the New England Societies. It was New England's tribute of respect to the minute men of '75. Bishop Conaty made an eloquent address upon patriotism, and the only other speaker that evening was an humble member of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, who most respectfully submits this report and subscribes his name thereto as

CLARKSON N. GUYER,
Chairman.

(Report ordered received and filed.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next committee to report is that on Organization in the South. I will call on Commander Moore to report for that committee.

REPORT ON ORGANIZATION IN THE SOUTH.

Commander MOORE: We have had very poor success in our endeavors during the past two years, especially during the past year, in trying to organize a Society in the South. We started out with South Carolina, and since we have added the next State, North Carolina. So far we have got nothing but fair words and good promises, which have not been fulfilled, but it seems to me that the coming year we will be able to establish those two Societies, one in South Carolina and one in North Carolina. (Applause.) Especially if we have the next Congress in the South. I think that will do more to build up our Society in the South than anything else that could possibly be done, and I hope that next year this Congress will be able to report that we have two new State Societies, North Carolina and South Carolina. (Applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: What action will you take upon the report of the Organization Committee South just made by Commander Moore? Shall it take the same course?

(Motion made, seconded and carried that the report be received and placed on file.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the report of the Committee on Education, and I will ask Judge Atwater, of the New Jersey Society, a member of that committee, in the absence of Col. Lyman, the Chairman, to report.

Judge ATWATER: This report has been prepared by Col. Lyman. Col. Lyman, who you all know, is a very active and earnest member of this Society and has paid a great deal of attention to this subject. This report is very carefully prepared and I shall take the liberty of reading it because it seems to me that the educational work of this Society goes to the very heart of the Society. It is that work which is an especial burden upon our Society and the special duty and the special privilege and an estimable one for us to undertake.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.

Col. Charles Lyman, Chairman, Treasury Dept., Washington, D. C.; Rt. Rev. Edward G. Weed, Jacksonville, Fla.; Seymour C. Loomis, New Haven, Conn.; Thomas S. Brown, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Hon. Cornelius A. Pugsley, Peekskill, N. Y.; Joseph G. Butler, Jr., Youngstown, Ohio; Hon. Edward S. Atwater, Elizabeth, N. J.; Col. Peter F. Pescud, New Orleans, La.; Hon. Henry M. Baker, Washington, D. C.

COMPATRIOTS: Your Committee on Education, in considering the character and scope of its functions, has not found it easy, always, to distinguish between what can with certainty be classed as educational work, and what may, with propriety, be otherwise classified. In its report to the Baltimore Congress last year, the committee said that much of the work done in the Societies, such as locating and marking graves, erecting monuments, etc., was patriotic in its inception and educational in its effect. The same may be said of other forms of effort, and especially the form of public addresses at banquets and meetings of State Societies and local Chapters, it being both a cause and an effect, a stimulating cause of more earnest interest in our Revolutionary history and the effect of a thoughtful contemplation of that history and its bearing upon present-day problems. While this is not deemed, at least by your committee, the most effective form of educational work, largely because the appeal is not made to the class of our citizenship which most needs it, yet it is by no means to be despised, and it is gratifying to note that during the last year Society and Chapter meetings throughout the country have been specially noteworthy because of this form of activity, which, it is hoped, may characterize the meetings of Societies and Chapters in the next year even more than it has in the past year.

2. The marking of historic places, by monument and tablet, and in that way, in many cases, rescuing them from comparative oblivion, has been a feature of the year's work in all parts of the country. The dedication of these monuments and tablets have been made occasions of public assembly at which there have been exercises and addresses suitable to such occasions. No doubt, in all cases, the immediate effect of such exercises has been to arouse and stimulate patriotic feeling and to inspire an interest in our Revolutionary history on the part of those present. But the value of such occasions is not wholly, nor chiefly, in their effect upon those present and participating, but in the teaching power and educational influence of the memorials themselves upon the coming generations. It is, therefore, suggested and urged that this class of work should be prosecuted with vigor by Societies and Chapters, until all notable historic places connected with our Revolutionary struggle in their several localities have been suitably marked. What has been said of places, applies with equal force to men and events. In those comparatively few cases where the erection of suitable memorials would be beyond the ability of a Chapter or Society, the influence of our organization might appropriately be used to secure State, municipal or national aid.

3. Reports received indicate that a larger number of medals and other prizes have been offered, competed for and awarded this year, than in some past years, mainly in schools, colleges and universities, for best essays on Revolutionary subjects and characters, and in a few instances, for winners in prize debates.

It seems to your committee that work along this line promises better results in training for patriotism and good citizenship than any undertaken in other directions, especially in those sections where the schools contain a large percentage of foreign-born children or children of foreign parentage.

No attempt is made in this report to give the details as to number of prize awards made nor the Societies and Chapters which have emphasized this form of educational work for fear that credit might not be given in some cases where due, because of lack of full information on the part of the committee.

4. While the distribution of the two leaflets, "Information for Immigrants" and "Naturalization," has continued, and a goodly number have been put into the hands of incoming and resident immigrants, the enthusiasm which characterized that work at the beginning has somewhat cooled, the committee regrets to note, and, therefore, urges upon those Societies, which, so to speak, stand at the gateways of the incoming tides of immigration, and those Societies which harbor in their midst great masses of the immigrant population, not to slacken their zeal in the use of these most important documents nor omit any other available means for the right training of these people who are aliens to-day but citizens to-morrow.

Four things may profitably be kept constantly in mind: (1) All programs for Society and Chapter meetings should be arranged and carried out with the distinct purpose of causing an access of patriotism among our members so much needed in dealing with present-day problems; (2) the influence of our Society should always be felt on the side of law and order and education and clean politics; (3) the immigrant, on arrival, should be met with such helpful attention that his first impression will tend towards good citizenship; (4) similar helpful attention should be shown to him when he is located in our midst, so that his first impressions may be confirmed and he may become a valuable asset of, instead of a menace to, our country.

Extreme pessimism expresses horror at the masses of the ignorant and unsympathetic that are coming to our shores and prophesies direful results. On the other hand, extreme optimism says that America could at this moment digest the whole population of Europe and still have breathing room. Somewhere between these two extremes the truth lies, and if the Sons of the American Revolution fulfill their mission, the poet's vision of the future in America may be realized:

THE FUTURE IN AMERICA.

"I stood on Ellis Island, and mine eyes
Dwelled on the fleet that in the harbor lies
Whereof each ship bears in its Titian womb
Seed of prodigious futures. 'Is there room,'
I cried aghast, 'and is it wise that we Should teach the alien bondsman to be free,
To speak the tongue of Shakespeare and of him
Who heard the pinions of the Cherubim
Flap with insurgent thunder? These men share
Not in the annals of our past nor care.'
Then from the sea of faces eager-eyed
Surging from Old World havens with the tide,—
By never a dyke of stern restriction bound—
Yea, from this Babel of confusing sound,
Rose in my sight as by some magic law
A wondrous vision. With mine eyes I saw
The elder nations. In her arms a gift
Each held unto our children; brawn and thrift,
Vine, songbirds, thought, their learning's splendid store,
Music, and God's and poets' sacred lore.
And through the veil of ages I saw one
Clad with the glory of the rising sun,
Strong-limbed and lithe,—with stars for eyes wherein Shone such sweet light as never I had seen
Reflected from the heavens,—decked with grace,
With every bounty laden. Face to face
We stood; then spake the vision: 'I am he
Who shall be. Marking, know of me:
Crowned with the gift each alien nation brings,
Your future sons will be a race of kings.'"

—George Sylvester Viereck.

It is recommended that authority be given to the Chairman of the Committee to draw on the Treasury of the Society for stationery, postage and other necessary expenses, for a sum not exceeding thirty dollars.

Fraternally,

CHARLES LYMAN,
Chairman.

Major VEALE: If I might be permitted a word, as possibly illustrating the value of the report just made—two weeks ago, in the City of Philadelphia, there was an interesting meeting. The Philadelphia Chapter had issued a circular sometime during the early part of the year to the public schools of the eighth grade, asking for competition in the writing of compositions upon the subject of the American Revolution and the establishment of the American Government. We received 110 compositions. A committee was appointed to go over these compositions and select four that the committee considered the very best. Now in the eighth grade of the public schools of Philadelphia the scholars range in ages from twelve to fifteen years. The committee selected four compositions as being the very best, and I must say that for boys and girls of the ages that competed, both in matter and method of presentation, they were worthy of boys and girls of advanced education.

We then selected the Central High School of Philadelphia as a place where these medals were to be presented. The President of the Board of Education of the District presented one. The Superintendent of the Public Schools of Philadelphia presented one; Admiral Melville, of the navy, presented one. If these boys who received these medals should ever arise to high situations in public or private life, I do not think they will ever experience the same amount of pleasure, the same amount of gratification, the same amount of suppressed enthusiasm that these scholars did in receiving these medals. It was to them a matter of profit and pride and joy when these medals were handed to them, and when the addresses of these eminent men in educational lines were made to them, they seemed to appreciate it in the highest possible degree. The teachers of the public schools attended; scholars of all these grades attended; mothers and fathers attended; and I know of no way of educating along the lines of patriotism greater than this. In some of these schools a large number of children were foreign-born, or born of foreign parentage, and they seemed to take in the very idea, they seemed to grasp that this was the method of making American citizens, education. It seemed to them the way they expressed themselves with the applause and the admiration which they gave, the pride which they seemed to express that their children had received these medals, "We are the Sons of the American Revolution." The public schools were the very places in which they should infuse this great foreign element into strength, into patriotism, into the finest kind of American citizenship. We cannot do, it seems to me, too much of this work, and in that excellent report setting forth all the subjects of educational work, along the lines of monumental work, and also of education, it does occur to me that there is a great work to which this organization of ours should bend its energy, its intelligence, its wisdom and its time, because after all, unless patriotic organizations like this of ours and those germane to it throughout the land are to save the country from those elements that are springing up that must be modified, that must be brought into subjection, that must be made American in every possible effect, there will be in this great land of ours elements arising that will be detrimental, not only to the principles of our Government, but a widespread influence throughout all civilized lands, because it is not for ourselves alone that we are working, there is an altruistic principle involved in our Society and in our work that must be done for others throughout the entire world. We are holding up the beacon light possibly of our own freedom and personal liberty, but it must be an educative torch, it must be a flame that has within it the burning of intelligence and wisdom. Great care must be exercised, and care can only be exercised and engendered in the proper spirit when the people are educated; educated not only simply in those intellectual lines, but educated in the heart and in the spirit, so that the Americanism that we are so proud of shall permeate the entire society that is being drawn upon our shores, which will be either a menace or a blessing. We can turn it into a blessing and into a strength. I commend every word of that report. In the meeting of the Memorial Committee, that has just made its report, there were some few other thoughts that we considered, one or two of which I took the greatest interest in, not embodied in the report because we thought that we had better center, at the present time, on those few suggestions.

Mr. BATES: I move that the report of the Committee on Education be accepted and placed on file, and that that part of it referring to the appropriation of $30 be referred to the Board of Trustees for its action.

(Motion duly seconded and carried.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Is it you pleasure to take a recess? It is now half-past twelve. Or shall we continue with the special committees?

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: It would be better to finish now, if possible.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Is there a report from the Flag Committee? The Secretary General will report briefly for that committee.

THE FLAG COMMITTEE.

Secretary General CLARK: The Chairman of the Flag Committee, Gen. Thos. M. Vincent, of the United States Army, is dead. His loss is a great one to this Society and especially to this committee, which had for its object the promotion of legislation to prevent the desecration of the flag. I am not a member of that committee, and no member is present, but I have the pleasure of saying that one of the active members of the District of Columbia Society and Chairman of one of our National Committees, Mr. W. V. Cox, has done excellent work since the death of General Vincent, in doing all in his power to promote this work. He has appeared before the committees of the House and of the Senate at the hearing on the bill now before those bodies. He assured me only a few days ago that he felt confident that during the present session of Congress a bill would be passed prohibiting the desecration of the flag in the District of Columbia and in the Territories, and later, at some future session, similar National legislation may be extended to cover all the States.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: You have heard the report of the Flag Committee. What action will you take?

(On motion, duly seconded, the report of the Committee was accepted and placed on file.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Next in order is the Committee on National Parks. I will ask a member of the committee, Mr. David L. Pierson, of New Jersey, to step to the platform and read the report, in the absence of the Chairman.

Mr. PIERSON: Mr. President General and Compatriots—This report was prepared by Mr. W. V. Cox, of Washington, the Chairman of the committee. The report is quite long and I will just read paragraphs from it to show you how thoroughly he has done the work during the past year and what a great deal is being done in this very important work of our National Society.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON NATIONAL PARKS 1910.

William V. Cox, Chairman, Washington, D. C.; David L. Pierson, East Orange, N. J.; Walter K. Watkins, Boston, Mass.; Col. Ira H. Evans, Austin, Tex.; Trueman G. Avery, Buffalo, N. Y.; William E. English, Indianapolis, Ind.

COMPATRIOTS: Your committee begs to report that during the past year the National Government, States and Territories, municipalities, patriotic societies and generous citizens have taken unusual interest in acquiring and preserving forest reservations and parks, and in marking historic sites, long and earnestly advocated by the Sons of the American Revolution.

(The full report of the committee reviews the progress made toward securing the Appalachian and White Mountain Reserve; the general question of forestry legislation in New England; the details of the extension of the Palisades Park; and other movements toward the establishment of National parks.)

PALISADES INTERSTATE PARK.

After fourteen years of effort the Palisades of the Hudson have been saved by the States of New York and New Jersey, and fourteen miles of water-front added to the playgrounds of the people. The formal dedication took place at Alpine, September 27, 1909. The Governors of New York and New Jersey had part in the ceremony, each accepting the park on behalf of his own State. George W. Perkins reported on the work of the Commissioners. The Palisades from Fort Lee to Piermont are now forever vested in tne public.

An old-fashioned shore-house, with clapboard sides, solid board shutters, was the center of attraction at the exercises. In this house Lord Cornwallis made his headquarters while the British were investing New York during the Revolution.

When the flag was raised for the salute, the flags of New York and New Jersey were run out on a cross-arm, and the people sang the Star Spangled Banner, accompanied by the band and animated by the booming of guns from the "Waturus" and "Gloucester."

Big Chief Towanda and his painted warriors, who were present, thereupon broke their silence and concluded the day with a joy dance.

EXTENSION OF PALISADES PARK.

Since the acquisition of the Interstate Park, Mrs. E. H. Harriman has tendered the State of New York 10,000 acres of land on the banks of the Hudson as an addition to this park. This most picturesque land before the Revolution belonged to Lord Stirling.

Simultaneous with the generous gift of Mrs. Harriman, Governor Hughes announced that a party of patriotic gentlemen had offered to contribute the sum of $1,625,000 to be used for purchasing land adjoining the Harriman gift in order to extend the Palisades Park northward to Newburgh.

In Malden, Mass., a memorial park is being made in which will be placed suitable memorials and tablets to the soldiers of the Revolution and the Civil War.

The restoration of Fort Ticonderoga splendidly illustrates the spirit which so many Americans are exhibiting in the campaign for preservation. Mrs. Stephen Pell, daughter of Col. Robert M. Thompson, of New York, expressed a desire to have Fort Ticonderoga restored as it was when Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain Boys captured it in May, 1775. "Have it done and send the bill to me," said Col. Thompson. Work was immediately begun and a portion of it completed at the time of the celebration of the tercentenary of Lake Champlain. It will take ten years to finish the work, at an estimated cost of $500,000.

The committee expresses the hope that there will be other Col. Thompsons with patriotic daughters.

The Hands Cove Continental Chapter, Daughters American Revolution, Vt., has just erected a monument at Mount Independence to the memory of Ethan Allen and eighty-three Green Mountain Boys, who embarked for Ticonderoga from Hands Cove, on ground given by Mr. and Mrs. Addison Kimball.

The Mercer County, N. J., Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association unveiled a monument in Cadwalader Park, Trenton, on June 19, 1909. It cost about $15,000, the money being raised by popular subscription.

Gen. James F. Rusling, an honored member of the Sons of the American Revolution is President of that Association.

The Sons of the American Revolution and other patriotic organizations in New Jersey are doing a most commendable work in promoting the establishment of a National Park at that historic site where Washington crossed the Delaware.

The Connecticut Society is preparing to commemorate the repulse of the British at Compo Beach, in the town of Westport, in 1777, with a bronze statue of the Minute Man, showing him on bended knee, watching for the enemy, alert and with his trusty flintlock ready for use.

Kings Mountain and Other Memorials.

A handsome granite shaft was dedicated last October on the battlefield of Kings Mountain. Great praise is due the Kings Mountain Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, for its successful effort in securing an appropriation of $30,000 from Congress to meet the expense.

A memorial was erected to the memory of George Rogers Clark at Quincy, Illinois, last May, a tardy tribute to the man who saved an empire to the American people.

The Mary Washington Colonial Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of New York, has erected several tablets in New York, marking places of historic interest, such as the Liberty Pole 1766-1776; the First Presidential Mansion, No. 1, Cherry Street; the Provost Prison; Whitehall Ferry, where Washington embarked after bidding farewell to his officers; Margaret Corbin, who served the gun of her husband when he was killed at Fort Washington.

Several tablets and memorials were erected in New York last fall at the time of the Hudson-Fulton anniversary, marking historic sites.

Santa Fe and Oregon Trails.

The Kansas branch of the Daughters of the American Revolution inaugurated a movement several years ago of placing granite markers along the old Santa Fe trail.

The last of the one hundred monuments and markers from Kansas City, Mo., to Trinidad, Colo., was recently unveiled at the latter place. The descendants of Kit Carson, a name that will always be associated with this once great highway, assisted in unveiling the monument in Trinidad. Markers are now placed at intervals of not less than five miles along the Santa Fe trail through the States of Kansas and Colorado, and all that remains to finish the work is similar action on the part of the State of Missouri and the Territory of New Mexico. Within a few years at most the work of marking the trail will have been completed from its beginning at Independence, Mo., to its end at the historic plaza at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to place markers along the Oregon trail, about 2000 miles in length, so earnestly advocated by the Daughters of the American Revolution of Nebraska and other States. The Government maps will include the three trails that branch off at Kearney, over which so many of the winners of the Far West passed.

Bills in Congress.

Among the bills introduced at this session of Congress are the following:

To establish a National Park at Fort Frederick, Md. This was the earliest of the stone forts in our history and was erected in 1756 as a defense against the French and Indians.

A National Park is also asked for Brandywine, Pa., the first battle in which the American flag was carried.

An appropriation of $5000 is asked for the completion of a memorial structure at Point Pleasant, West Va., to commemorate the battle of October 10, 1774, between the Colonial troops and Indians.

Appropriations are asked for acquiring sites and erection of a statue to General Greene at Guilford Court House, N. C.

General William Campbell, the hero of Kings Mountain, at Abingdon, Va.

General John Sullivan, in Washington, D. C.

Alexander Hamilton, Washington, D. C.

General John Stark, in Manchester, N. H.

General James Miller, the hero of Lundy's Lane, at Petersboro, N. H.

Peyton Randolph, first President of the Continental Congress, on the ground of Williams and Mary College, Va.

Jeremiah O'Brien, who in the first fight of the Revolution captured the British schooner "Margaretta."

A large number of bills have been introduced in Congress this session for National military parks.

These bills usually provide that commissioners shall have charge of the affairs, under the supervision and direction of the Secretary of War.

To reduce the number of these commissioners, Mr. Parker has introduced H. R. Bill 16,347, which abolishes the Chickamauga, Shiloh, Gettysburg and Vicksburg commissions.

A National Park Commission is substituted, which is from time to time to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for the term of five years, from persons considered by him to be especially well qualified for the performance of the duties of the position; one of the members he shall designate as chairman, and each of whom in appointment made during the ten years next after the passage of this Act shall have actively participated in the Civil War; two members shall have served in the Confederate Army. The commissioners shall have an office in Washington, under the War Department, and while on active duty shall be paid such compensation as the Secretary of War shall deem reasonable and just, not to exceed $3000 a year, in addition to actual necessary expenses incurred in transacting the business of the commission. The first members of said National Military Park Commission shall include one member of each of the existing Military Park commissions and one member who shall have served either in the Army of the Potomac or in the Army of Northern Virginia. The restoration, preservation, suitable marking and maintenance will be to commemorate the valor of American arms for historical and professional military study, of such battlefields, forts or cemeteries, or parts thereof, of the Colonial, Revolutionary, Indian and Civil wars, or of any other wars of the United States, shall be in charge of the commission which may report to Congress as to places and sites or additions thereto suitable and proper to be acquired and restored, preserved or marked, and an estimate of the expense thereof.

Your committee believes this will simplify the present cumbersome system and favors the approval of Major Parker's bill. It especially favors acquiring the battlefields of the American Revolution as a tribute to the deeds of our heroic ancestors. The committee by invitation has appeared before the committees of Congress in advocacy of such measures.

Respectfully submitted,

W. V. Cox,
Chairman.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: You have heard the report of the Committee on National Parks. What is your pleasure?

(Motion that the report be approved and placed on file and printed in the Year-Book, seconded and carried.)

(On motion, the meeting took a recess to 2.30 o'clock p. m.)

Afternoon Session, May 2, 1910—2.30 p. m.

The Congress was called to order by President General Beardsley.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next report is the Committee on Pension and Muster Rolls. I will ask Mr. Moses to make the report for the committee.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PENSION AND MUSTER ROLLS.

Zebina Moses, Chairman, Washington, D. C.; Major E. B. Tolman, Chicago, Ill.; Col. R. W. Guthrie, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Walter Hill Crockett, St. Albans, Vt.; Dr. Francis H. Brown, Boston, Mass.; Wallace McCamant, Portland, Ore.; Rev. Jos. Brown Turner, Dover, Del.

COMPATRIOTS: Your Committee on Pension and Muster Rolls takes pleasure in reporting that decided progress has been made in the Pension Bureau in preparing summary cards for the papers in each Revolutionary pension case. Whereas but 952 cards were made last year, nearly 3000 such cards have been added since. A larger force of clerks was employed and your committee understands that still more work will be accomplished during the coming year.

Much of the time of the experienced clerks, who handled the papers, has been taken in making searches and in replying to inquiries from our Society, from the Daughters of the American Revolution Society and individuals, and about 4000 official letters were written last year in answer to such calls.

When the cards or digests have been completed and the results embodied in a Government publication, information desired will be easy of access to all applicants.

The Pension Office has lately provided large oak cases containing suitably labeled drawers in which the Revolutionary pension papers can be laid flat and thus be better preserved.

These papers are old, much worn and the ink is fading; there is also a liability to destruction by fire.

When the copy is ready for the Public Printer there ought to be very little trouble in securing prompt publication. The historical, genealogical and library associations throughout the country, would unite with the patriotic societies in demanding it.

The Government should print everything available in connection with the War of the Revolution in the same manner that it has already printed the records of the Civil War.

A number of the older States have furnished clerical force and sufficient funds for preparing and publishing many large volumes of Revolutionary archives; and all obtainable muster rolls of soldiers and minute men of the Revolution have been carefully compiled and printed by State authority. An examination of the numerous and costly volumes furnished by such States as Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New York will convince any inquirer that very much has been accomplished through State action.

The publications giving the names of Revolutionary soldiers from Delaware, Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia are not complete and the patriotic societies would be greatly benefited if the Revolutionary muster rolls now in the custody of the War and Navy Departments could be printed and distributed.

It is, therefore, a satisfaction to this committee to be able to report that a bill has been introduced in the United States House of Representatives as follows:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, February 28, 1910, Mr. McCall introduced the following bill, which was referred to the Committee on Printing and ordered to be printed:

(H. R. 22,007.) A Bill to authorize the compilation of military and naval records of the Revolutionary War with a view to their publication.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of War is hereby authorized and directed to collect and compile, with a view to publication, the scattered military records of the Revolutionary War, and the Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized and directed to collect and compile with a view to publication the scattered naval records of the Revolutionary War.

SEC. 2. That all such records in the possession and custody of any official of the United States shall be transferred, the military records to the War Department, the naval records to the Navy Department.

SEC. 3. That there is hereby appropriated, for the purposes of this act, out of the money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, $50,000 for the War Department and $10,000 for the Navy Department.

The Committee on Naval Records of this Society is also interested in the passage of this bill, the more so by reason that very few of the naval records and enlistments have ever been printed.

This committee will not infringe on the functions of the Naval Records Committee, and will leave to that committee the question whether any action of this Congress is necessary or desirable in connection with the bill now pending in the House of Representatives.

The principal field for further action by your committee seems to be in urging forward the completion of the present carding system of the Pension Office, which will give us digests of a personal, historical and genealogical character, such as have been fully described in previous reports of the committee in which models of the pension cards were also shown, these reports being duly printed in our National Year-Books.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have considered these digests of the Revolutionary pension papers so valuable for future reference, that whenever examinations of them have been made at the Pension Office in connection with applications for membership, they have made copies for their library and they have also prepared a card index which even now contains about 2400 names.

While your committee is gratified with the progress made during the past year, and has hopes of better results in the year to come, it renews and indorses the recommendations in the last year's report of this committee to the Baltimore Congress.

Respectfully submitted,

ZEBINA MOSES,
Chairman.

Mr. MOSES: Mr. President General, since writing the report of the committee I have consulted with the Chairman of the Committee on Naval Records, Commander John H. Moore, and have placed before him a resolution which I have drafted and which I find expresses his views. With his approval I therefore offer the following resolution for the action of this Congress:

Resolved, By the Congress of the Sons of the American Revolution, in session at Toledo, Ohio, May 2, 1910, that we heartily approve the objects of bill H. R. 22,007, entitled, "A bill to authorize the compilation of military and naval records of the Revolutionary War with a view to their publication"—said bill having been introduced in the House of Representatives February 28, 1910, and that we urge its early enactment.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to both Houses of Congress.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: You have heard the report of the committee. What is your pleasure?

Dr. GUYER: I move that the report be received, the resolution adopted and the report placed on file.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

Colonel Howard, of New Jersey, addressed the Congress on the importance of preserving intact the valuable archives in the U. S. Pension Bureau.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the Committee on National Anthems. I will ask Admiral Baird to report.

Admiral BAIRD: The committee has nothing to report; nothing in the world. It was my intention a year ago to ask for the discharge of the committee. I think now that it had better be continued. I had thought that there was no use of the continuation of that committee, but it seems to me that the mere existence of that committee is a menace to those who would oppose our National anthems. I think as long as we exist they will let those things alone.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the Committee on Information for Aliens. I will ask Commander Moore for the report.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON INFORMATION FOR ALIENS.

COMPATRIOTS: During the year there has been a constant demand for our two leaflets: No. 1, "The United States: Its Opportunities, Government and Institutions"; and No. 2, "Naturalization of Aliens in the United States; How to Become Citizens; What is Required; Rights and Duties."

Leaflet No. 1 has been distributed in the following languages: Greek, Italian, Swedish, Danish-Norwegian, Magyar, German, Polish, Lithuanian, Yiddish, Slovak, Bohemian, Croatian, Slovinian and English. The largest demand was for Italian, Polish and Yiddish. Leaflet No. 2, on "Naturalization," has been published in the English language only as the Executive Committee did not deem it wise policy to have it translated. There has been a growing demand for this leaflet throughout the year.

Last December a bill was introduced in the House of Representatives, Section 5 of which proposed to abolish the Division of Information in the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization of the Department of Commerce and Labor. This Division for the past two years has been of the greatest assistance to our committee in the distribution of our leaflets. It has been working along the same patriotic lines as our Society in its work of assisting in the distribution of the aliens from the congested centers to the farms throughout the country.

The District of Columbia Society commenced work immediately, not only to save this Division, but to strengthen it in its work. At the January meeting of the District of Columbia Society the following Memorial to Congress was adopted:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

WHEREAS, A large part of the tide of immigration constantly flowing toward the United States congests in our larger cities, where it feeds the slums, breeds disease, propagates anarchy, becomes a drug in the labor market, and continues to exist without proper knowledge of our laws, customs, language or ideals of citizenship, while small inland cities, towns and agricultural communities throughout the United States are in need of the services of the men and women living in idleness or leading unprofitable lives in congested centers;

WHEREAS, The distribution of labor to its advantage and that of our country is not only desirable, but a patriotic duty, and should be encouraged;

WHEREAS, Section 40 of the Immigration Act of 1907 provides for the establishment of a Division of Information, the duty of which is "to promote a beneficial distribution of aliens admitted to the United States," and the said Division is engaged in directing aliens and others to places throughout the country where their services are required, and has already demonstrated its usefulness in giving information to thousands concerning the opportunities for labor on the land and away from the large cities;

WHEREAS, The said Division of Information has co-operated with the Sons of the American Revolution by placing the pamphlets "Information for Immigrants" and "Naturalization of Aliens" in the hands of thousands;

WHEREAS, We regard the Division of Information as calculated to become a most useful and necessary adjunct of our governmental machinery;

WHEREAS, An effort is being made to repeal Section 40 of the Immigration Act of 1907 in order to put an end to the usefulness of the Division of Information, it is

Resolved, That we, the Sons of the American Revolution, do respectfully protest against the passage of any act that will have for its purpose the abolition of the Division of Information or the repeal of the law establishing said Division, or any interference with it in any other way than to strengthen it and enlarge its powers.

We therefore petition your honorable bodies to refuse to enact any law, amendment to law or any joint resolution having for its object the repealing of Section 40 of the Immigration Act of February 20, 1907.

Later, by direction of the President General, the following letter was sent to all State Societies and Chapters:

WASHINGTON, January, 1910.

To Presidents of State Societies, to Presidents of Chapters, Sons of the American Revolution.

COMPATRIOTS: An attempt is being made to abolish the Division of Information of the Bureau of Immigration of the Department of Commerce and Labor. This Division has been of the greatest assistance to the Sons of the American Revolution in its endeavor during the past two years to instruct aliens how to become better citizens.

Two complaints are laid against present-day immigration. The first is that too many undesirable, illiterate, unhealthy and immoral aliens are admitted. The second is that, having complied with the provisions of the immigration law governing their inspection at the port of arrival, and gained admission to the United States, too many aliens congregate in our large cities and central points of industrial activity, thereby adding to the number of the unemployed and constituting a menace to the welfare of the community.

Of the first complaint we have nothing to say, for it is the admitted alien and his treatment that interests our Society. Congress, impressed, after long and careful inquiry, with the necessity of affording relief to the country and warding off the danger of the overcrowding of aliens in our cities and large towns, enacted a law providing for a distribution of admitted aliens throughout the country where their services could be used to their and the nation's advantage. This law is known as Section 40 of the Immigration Act of February 20, 1907, and has been in force since July 1 of that year, when the Division of Information provided for in the section referred to became operative.

Until the alien is admitted that Division can have no dealing with him. After he is admitted it cannot force its attentions upon him or oblige him to go to or refrain from going to any part of the country. The Division gathers from every available source information concerning opportunities for the industrious, able and willing worker. Its activities are directed mainly to agricultural localities, villages and small inland towns. Its purposes, as expressed in the statute, is "to promote a beneficial distribution of aliens admitted to the United States among the several States and Territories desiring immigration." The most effective way to promote a distribution of aliens and to make that distribution beneficial to the country as well as to the individual, is to be able to tell the person in quest of information just where his services can be utilized. By a system of painstaking inquiry the wants of the various States have become known to the Division of Information, and when a man applies to it for information it can tell him where he may find employment; who requires his services; what the cost of travel is; the nature of the duties he will be called on to perform; rate of compensation; whether others of his race or language may be found awaiting him, and in addition something about schools, transportation facilities, climate and many other things of interest to him.

Through its instrumentality there have been distributed through the country over seven thousand people. That they were carefully selected and wisely counseled is evident from the fact that the complaints from them or those to whom they were directed are infinitesimal. Some 34,000 people have been directly served with information which they could use to their advantage; and I am informed that these figures relate to individual inquiries, the same person not being listed twice, no matter how often he may call or inquire. The effect of this has been to inspire those served with the idea that we are not a nation of grafters, intent only on exploiting a man's labor, without evidencing any interest in him other than to allow him to grope about blindly to his own detriment and that of his competitors.

The Division of Information has been careful not to direct men to localities where their presence would be likely to disturb relations existing between employers and employed. Since it points the way from large cities, where labor disturbances are likely to exist, to small places and to the farm, there is little danger of interference between labor and capital. This danger is minimized by the cautious method employed by the Division of Information when it secures the facts concerning strikes, boycotts or lockouts, in order to be able to inform inquirers of actual conditions.

As as aid to good citizenship nothing better was ever attempted by this Government, and instead of abolishing the Division, as is proposed, its powers should be enlarged and its activities encouraged.

Perhaps we may be able to trace some relationship between the high cost of living now causing so much embarrassment and worry and the number of alleged idle men in the country. If the scope of the Division of Information were so enlarged as to enable it to enroll every idle man, and know to a certainty where such a man could find profitable employment, it would go far toward solving the question of the cost of our food supply. The idle men must be fed and clothed. Their care and keep must be paid for by those who do work. They are not producers, and when industrious producers must share the proceeds of their labor with the non-producer, thus creating demand without adding to the production, the tendency of prices of food must be upward, while the presence of large numbers of unemployed must as surely be a hindrance to the upward trend of wages.

I am enclosing two copies, one for the Senate and one for the House of Representatives, of a petition or memorial that was unanimously adopted by the District of Columbia Society at its monthly meeting, held on January 19, 1910.

It is earnestly recommended that your Society or Chapter adopt the same, or a similar one, and have it presented to Congress at as early a date as possible.

It is the intention of our committee to solicit the aid of the Daughters of the American Revolution and such other patriotic societies as can be reached.

You cannot be too active in this matter, as it would be a serious blow to our patriotic work to have the Division of Information of the Department of Commerce and Labor abolished.

Cordially,

JOHN H. MOORE,
Chairman of Committee on Information for Aliens.

By direction of the President General.

Upon the request of our President General a similar letter and memorial was sent to every State Regent and every Chapter Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution by the President General of that Society.

It is very gratifying to report that for the past two months not a legislative day has passed without from two to fourteen memorials from either a Society of the Sons or a Chapter of the Daughters being presented in one or both branches of Congress. This activity on the part of our two great patriotic Societies we feel confident will not only save the Division of Information, but has already commenced to strengthen it in its good work.

Your committee is still of the opinion that this work of education and preparing the alien for citizenship is the greatest patriotic duty that our Society has to perform.

Allusion has been made to the zealous co-operation with and great assistance rendered to this committee by the Division of Information. The committee is at the same time impressed with the fact that the Division is capable and desirous of doing far more than it has as yet been able to do and that to realize their higher measure of usefulness there is needed a greater personal interest upon the part of those higher in authority, to encourage and stimulate the work of this Division, and with this in view the committee submit the following resolution:

Resolved by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in the Twenty-first Annual Congress assembled, That the President General of this Society be, and he is hereby, authorized to appoint a committee of three to express to the President of the United States and the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor its appreciation of the work accomplished by the Division of Information of the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, and to request and urge that the scope and extent of the work of that Division be extended and its efficiency promoted as far as possible.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. MOORE,
CHARLES LYMAN,
A. HOWARD CLARK,
Committee.

(On motion the report was accepted and the resolution unanimously adopted.)

PUBLICATION COMMITTEE.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the Publication Committee.

Secretary General CLARK: The Chairman of the Publication Committee is not here and he has not advised me of any measure that he wished to present to the Congress. I can say in general that the work of that committee is chiefly in connection with the Official Bulletin and the Year-Book, the work on both of which is done by the Secretary General, and any recommendation which he has will be made to the Executive Committee.

(Motion that the report be received and placed on file. Motion seconded and carried.)

COMMITTEE ON NAVAL RECORDS.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the Committee on Naval Records, Commander Moore, Chairman.

Commander MOORE: The Committee on Naval Records has no report to make this year except that they have made slight progress.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the Advisory Committee on Local Chapters.

LOCAL CHAPTERS.

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: In the absence of Dr. Parker, the Chairman of that committee, who is expected to arrive to-morrow, the following letter and partial report has been forwarded, being addressed to the Executive Committee instead of to the Congress, but it seems to me proper to present it to the Congress. (Reads report.) Following the practice, I would move you, sir, that this report of Dr. Parker's be received and placed on file, and that in view of the statements herein contained, and the statements contained in the annual report that the President General has made this morning, that the committee be continued and authorized to report at any time to the Executive Committee.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

LOWELL, MASS., April 26, 1910.

To the Executive Committee of the National Society Sons of the American Revolution:

Mr. PRESIDENT: As Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Local Chapters, I beg to report that on June 26, 1909, Commander Moore withdrew his proposed State Constitutions and By-laws, previously submitted and substituted a new State Constitution and By-laws; copies of this new Constitution and By-laws, proposed by Commander Moore, have been sent to each member of the Advisory Committee on Local Chapters, for their comment and opinion on the same; not hearing from any of the members of this committee, I do not feel that I can report for them. Therefore, I leave this matter in your hands at this meeting.

I have had one inquiry this year, from Kansas, asking about the forming of Chapters. This I was able to answer by sending our Massachusetts Society blanks, etc.

I believe that the increase of our Society is through our Chapters and that such members as Compatriot Sterling, of New Jersey, and Compatriot Luther Atwood, of Lynn, Mass., each having through their own personal efforts added to their own Chapters over one hundred members, should be encouraged.

There are plenty of eligible men, but these men need someone to make out their application papers; this is what Mr. Atwood has done for over one hundred new members.

MOSES GREELEY PARKER,
Chairman Advisory Committee on Local Chapters.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Will Judge Stockbridge please report for the Committee on Jefferson Memorial?

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON JEFFERSON MEMORIAL.

Mr. PRESIDENT GENERAL: The Special Committee on a Memorial to Thomas Jefferson, to be erected at the National capital, submits the following report, in accordance with the terms of the resolution adopted at the last Congress.

By the Sundry Civil Act of 1904 a commission was created, consisting of the Secretary of State, the chairman of the Committee on the Library of the Senate, and the chairman of the Committee on the Library of the House of Representatives of the fifty-eighth Congress, to select a site on the public grounds in the District of Columbia for a statue of Thomas Jefferson, to cost complete not to exceed $100,000, and to procure plans and designs for the same, to be reported to Congress during its next session, $5000

On May 8, 1906, the Secretary of State, as chairman of the commission, reported to Congress that he had secured the consent of Mr. Augustus St. Gaudens to make the designs for the proposed statue, and that the same would be prepared as soon as Mr. St. Gaudens' health and previous engagements would permit. No plans were in fact ever prepared by Mr. St. Gaudens, so far as your committee has been able to learn, and since the death of that illustrious artist no further action has been taken by the commission. The appropriation provided by the act of 1904, already referred to, has now lapsed and been covered back into the Treasury by operation of the Sundry Civil Act of 1909, and so held by the Comptroller of the Treasury Department.

Shortly after the passage of the act of 1904, in the year 1905 or 1906 there was organized in the City of Washington the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association, of which Admiral Dewey was the first president, and later the Hon. Hillary A. Herbert. This association issued a small pamphlet, but failed to arouse any special interest or enthusiasm, and subsequently the announced plans of the association were changed from that of procuring the erection of a memorial to Thomas Jefferson, to the erection of a memorial even more pretentious which should serve as a memorial to all of those who signed the Declaration of Independence. This association has, however, accomplished nothing toward giving concrete form to either plan, and does not at the present time give any indication of an active existence.

These two propositions are, so far as your committee has been able to learn, all that has been done in the direction of securing a lasting memorial to him who will go down in the pages of history as the author of the Declaration of Independence.

Your committee feels that if the suggestion shall meet with the approval of the National Society, Congress will be no less generous now than it was when it passed the act of 1904, and that an earnest expression of the Congress of this Society of 1910, coupled with the active work of a zealous committee of this Society, would result in the speedy re-enactment of the provisions of that act. Certainly when our National Government is lavish in its expenditure of money to honor so many others, including many of those who aided us as allies, it can ill afford to permit longer our nation's capital to bear no stone or monument to perpetuate the memory of him who was one of the greatest single factors in molding the life of this republic.

Your committee, therefore, recommends to the Congress the appointment of a committee to endeavor to secure from Congress a re-enactment of the provision made by the act of 1904, under a like or different commission, and submits for the consideration of the Congress whether, when such legislation shall have been secured this Society may not and should not by suitable appropriation make itself a recognized factor in the bringing about of this result.

Respectfully submitted,

MORRIS B. BEARDSLEY,
HENRY STOCKBRIDGE,
CALEB C. MAGRUDER, JR.,
Committee.

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: Accompanying this report is the following draft of a resolution: "Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the President General to recommend to Congress the re-enactment of the provision made in 1904 for a memorial in the City of Washington, to Thomas Jefferson, and to report to the next Congress what if any further action the committee shall think it expedient to be done by this Society."

(Motion that the report of the committee be received and recommendation adopted, duly seconded and carried.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Is that committee to be appointed by the incoming President General?

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: Either one.

Admiral BAIRD: It is all well enough to appoint a committee, and the committee may go to Congress and urge to have the bill introduced, and they may visit that committee in Congress, but unless there is something more it cannot be hoped that a report will be obtained from that committee. The members of the State Societies should lend their support and visit and communicate with the member from his district, or Senator from his State, and urge his co-operation. In that way the committee will have a formidable backing, and I do not know of any other way that that can be done.

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: I possibly ought to state in addition that the chairman of both committees in the House and in the Senate, to which that bill would naturally be referred, have given to me assurance that if the bill were introduced it would receive their hearty support and co-operation.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: That completes the call of the roll of the special committees and I now will recognize Mr. Hyde, of Maryland, who will present the Traveling Banner to the New Jersey Society.

PRESENTATION OF TRAVELING BANNER.

Mr. HYDE: I just want to say, Mr. President General, that one year ago in Baltimore City was awarded this Traveling Banner to our Maryland State Society for the largest per cent of increase for the year. You all know that our State, while a small one in its boundary lines, is as patriotic and has always been as patriotic as any other State in this union, and while our percentage of increase has been smaller this year, comparatively speaking, and undoubtedly in comparison with New Jersey, yet it has been a great pride to us to have held this banner for the past year, and it is only with greater pride, in view of the record of the New Jersey Society, that we feel at all like relinquishing it. It has been a source of great pleasure to us, and I am almost convinced that, when unwrapping it the other day to get it ready to bring here, that it still had the odor of luxurious mint in its folds. (Laughter and applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Will the representative from New Jersey come forward and receive the banner?

(Judge Atwater, of New Jersey, proceeds to platform amidst applause.)

Mr. HYDE (presenting banner to Judge Atwater): We wish you, sir, increased prosperity and we hope that next year instead of your increase being 42 per cent it may be 84. (Applause.)

Judge ATWATER: Mr. President General and Compatriots—It affords me very great pleasure and satisfaction, on the part of the New Jersey Society, to receive this banner. I think that this is the third year in which this banner has been given, and in speaking of the increase in membership I think it is proper that we should congratulate our President General on the report of the Registrar General to the effect that this year has witnessed the greatest increase in membership of this Society of any year during its existence. Now, as New Jersey is to the fore to-day, it seems to me that I might say a word about New Jersey and the connection of New Jersey with this Society. It is true that New Jersey was not the originator of the principle or the idea on which these patriotic Societies are formed. The idea, the principle, of a

Society based upon and made up of those who are descendants from the patriotic men of the Revolution, those who rendered patriotic services in the Revolution; that idea first arose in California (applause), and California first formed a Society on that basis. Other Societies were formed, but it is a matter of history that the New Jersey Society early in 1889 took the name of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and it is also, I think a matter of history which will not be disputed that New Jersey issued a call to other Societies which resulted in the formation of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Now, Mr. President General, I am not here to boast of New Jersey. New Jersey has sought in its Society to perform its work and do its duty in carrying out the high purposes and principles of this Society, and I think our record is honorable, and it is to me a very great gratification, a very great satisfaction, that it has happened during my time as President of the New Jersey State Society that this banner should have come to New Jersey. No, Mr. President, General, be it far from me to claim any special credit for this achievement, for as has already been intimated, the real work in bringing about this great increase of membership in the New Jersey Society is due to Mr. George Curtis Sterling, of Montclair. (Applause.) But I think also that you, Mr. President General, and Connecticut, may claim a certain interest and a certain share in the honor which is coming to New Jersey in this regard. It is no secret that Mr. Sterling is personally related to our honored President General, and that he has only very recently come from Bridgeport, Conn., to take up his home in New Jersey. Now the Presidents General heretofore, President General McClary, President General Stockbridge and our honored President General Beardsley, have referred repeatedly and very strongly and very earnestly to the necessity, in order to increase the influence of our Society, in order to increase its usefulness, that its membership should be largely increased, and I think then, that in order to make this Society more and more efficient, we should one and all continue to labor with the greatest zeal and earnestness to increase our membership, and Mr. President General, I do believe that the time is ripe, the time is ready for increased activity in all our Societies along this line. Mr. Sterling has simply shown us what one earnest man, fired by a single and determined purpose, can do. Mr. Sterling has devoted his time, his energy and I may say his money, to the accomplishment of this result. He has left no stone unturned, and the result of his work has been the establishment of a Chapter in New Jersey which I believe is unique in the history of this Society, in the sense that it was established with more members than any other Chapter has been established in any part of our country. Now, something has already been said in regard to the advantages of local Chapters. I think that the Chapter is, after all the real unit of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. I do believe that a Chapter formed in a community among friends and neighbors, who can get together frequently and work together, can be of the greatest service in promoting the high objects and purposes of our Society. The objects and purposes of our Society are of the highest type; they appeal to all patriotic, bright-minded citizens, and I do believe that if we shall go home from this meeting with the purpose that next year shall witness a very large increase in our membership, and put forth the proper energy and spirit, we can accomplish this result. I am deeply gratified, Mr. President General, on behalf of our Society, that it is our privilege to carry back with us this Traveling Banner, showing that the New Jersey Society is still alive, still full of vigor and still earnestly engaged in the work of promoting the objects of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. (Applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: I want to recognize Dr. Guyer, who represents the Colorado Society.

Dr. CLARKSON N. GUYER: Mr. President General and Compatriots—You will remember that last year I told you that Colorado was going to win the banner. It certainly looks as though she had been outdistanced in the race and it reminds me of the story of a son of the Emerald Isle, whose horse was in a race and was gradually becoming outdistanced. "Look at old John," he said, "begorra he is driving everything before him." Unlike the old auntie of Governor Warfield's story, that "she had done lost her taste for her old man," the Colorado Society has abated not a tittle of its spirit and its courage and its love for our National Society. When President Taft visited our State in September, 1909, and was entertained so lavishly by Thomas F. Walsh, a large committee of our Society was officially invited. This letter, which I hope our Secretary General Clark may hang on the wall of his office, was engrossed and presented to the President in this form. His secretary made suitable acknowledgment of it to our Society.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next proceeding in order is the presentation of the gold badge of the Society, given by one of our worthy members, to be awarded to the State Society enrolling the largest number of sons of members. Last year a badge like the present one went to the State of Michigan. I will ask Mr. Bates to make the presentation this year to New Jersey. (Applause.)

PRESENTATION OF INSIGNIA.

Mr. BATES: Mr. President General and Compatriots—It is a very good idea on the part of this Society that there should be a banner given to the State Society that should make the largest increase. Now the increase of membership, in one sense, does not necessarily consist in the largest number of the members who come direct through their own parentage, but there was another suggestion made which has operated very happily, and that is that the sons of the Sons should have some place in this program, and the suggestion was made that whatever Society could show the largest increase of membership coming from the sons of the Sons, should have a very beatuiful insignia given to that Society as a token of the efforts that they have made to perpetuate the principles of this Society to the second and third and fourth generations. It fell to Michigan last year to show to this Society that we had the largest increase. Now, whether that increase was due to the fact that we had more members who had sons, or whether there were more sons of the members that we did have, I don't know. But apparently the fact is that we did have the largest numbers of sons of the Sons who were members of our Society, and as a result of that we secured a very beautiful insignia of which this is a prototype, and it now becomes my pleasant duty to hand this insignia over to the representative of the New Jersey Society, that has not only secured the Traveling Banner, but also secured the insignia. And the striking thing is that New Jersey not only has secured the 42 per cent increase in membership, which is greater than any other Society, but has secured twenty of the sixty-three sons of members and is, therefore, entitled to the prize insignia. It gives me great pleasure, Mr. President General, to hand this insignia over to our compatriot from New Jersey as a token of the very great interest they have exhibited in securing more sons than any other State Society. (Applause.)

Colonel Howard accepted the badge in behalf of the New Jersey Society, expressing gratification that so many young men, inspired by patriotic sentiment, are joining the Sons of the American Revolution. This Society will become grander and greater and finer than ever, due to the fact that the sons of members are being enrolled. New Jersey is proud of the honor of having enrolled the most sons during the past year, but that pride is only incidental to the pride it has in the great work of the entire organization.

The President General: I might say that the suggestion of the donor of this insignia is that the Society receiving it shall present it to one of the sons of the members to be designated by the Society. It may be of interest to the compatriots who have listened to Colonel Howard to know that he is the son of the late General O. O. Howard, U. S. Army.

The President General: The next is the reports of the State Societies.

The Secretary General: The Secretary General has the annual reports of many of the Societies. It has been the custom to vote that they shall be included in abstract in the National Year-Book.

(Motion carried to receive and publish the reports in the Year-Book.)

The activities of the California Society during the year have been as follows:

Peace Day, September 3, was observed by a memorial service in Trinity Church, San Francisco, at which addresses were made by the Mayor of the city and the Bishop of California appropriate to the occasion before a large audience.

During the Portola Festival, October 20 to 22, 1909, by the citizens of San Francisco to commemorate the discovery of San Francisco Bay, this Society gave a reception to Mrs. John F. Swift, Vice-President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the St. Francis Hotel, which was a great success, and from the attention it attracted resulted in augmenting our membership materially.

A committee has been appointed to devise a proper method of starting subscriptions toward the erection of a monument to George Washington in Golden Gate Park.

A joint meeting of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution was held July 26, 1909, to consider the State act regarding desecration of the flag, and leaflets containing a copy of the act were widely distributed to the public, as well as read to the pupils in each school in San Francisco.

Leaflet No. 2, containing "Information to Aliens," has also been distributed by the Society to the number of 500.

The anniversary of Washington's birthday was celebrated by a banquet at the St. Francis Hotel, which was largely attended by the members and lady guests. The Society was honored on that occasion by the presence of Dr. Clarkson N. Guyer, Vice-President General, then on his way to inaugurate the Nevada State Society. Col. Hubbard, our Registrar, accompanied him to Reno, as our representative on that occasion.

The Board of Managers on February 16, 1910, adopted a resolution and memorial to the Senate and House of Representatives, protesting against the abolition of the Division of Information and repeal of Section 40 of the Immigration Act, which was forwarded to our representatives at Washington.

This Society earnestly hopes to be able to induce the National Society to hold its 1911 session in San Francisco, and should their action be favorable to our wishes, we pledge our best endeavors to make it a notable occasion.

The growth of the Society is encouraging. A number of applications are in hand.

The Colorado Society has been active during the past year particularly in holding patriotic meetings of the local Chapters.

The Society held a patriotic church service on Sunday evening, November 21, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Denver, in commemoration of the evacuation of New York by the British, November 25, 1783, when a sermon was delivered by the Chaplain of the Society, Rev. R. B. Peery, Ph. D., on "The Hand of God in History."

The Denver Chapter held monthly meetings from October to April. "Keen interest is shown by a large number of members in these meetings and in the work planned by the State Society." On November 18, the topic of the meeting was "Japan," with addresses by Gen. Irving Hale on "Japan as a World Power," and by Rev. R. B. Peery on "The Rise of Japan."

On October 21 addresses were given by Compatriot William H. Seeds on "The United States, A World Power," and by Compatriot Harper Leiper on "Our Island Possessions." Mr. Seeds reviewed some of the important events indicating the broad power and influence of the United States.

The annual banquet was held at the Brown Palace Hotel, Denver, on the evening of February 22. The principal address was by President Wardner Williams, on "Washington as a Man, a Statesman and a Patriot." Mrs. John Campbell, Vice-President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution, spoke on behalf of that Society. Victor E. Keyes, of the Greeley Chapter, told of the growth of the Sons of the American Revolution and of its achievements. Malcolm Lindsey, of the Colorado Springs Chapter, applied a broad meaning to patriotism. "It is largely the fault of the individual citizen if he says his city or State is not what it ought to be. His is the duty to drive out corrupt office-holders and keep the Government pure," said Mr. Lindsey.

The annual memorial meeting of the Society was held at St. Mark's Church on Sunday evening, February 20, when the sermon was preached by the President, Rev. J. H. Houghton, D. D.

The Denver Chapter, at its monthly meeting on January 20, 1910, had an address on "China" by President Houghton, and on February 17 there was an address by Compatriot Frank McLaughlin on "The Growth of Liberty and the Constitution."

The Society is taking steps to organize local Chapters at Pueblo, Boulder, Fort Collins and Grand Junction, in addition to those already organized at Denver, Colorado Springs and Greeley.

The Connecticut Society numbers 1081 members, which includes 46 new members that have been admitted since April 1, 1909.

Nine meetings of the Board of Managers have been held during the year, with good attendance and great interest shown in the proceedings.

The graves of many Revolutionary soldiers and sailors have been marked with the Society marker during the year.

The most interesting work has been the completion of the monument at Compo Beach upon the spot where General Tryon landed the British troops on his raid on Danbury. The design was prepared by the celebrated artist, H. Daniel Webster, of New York, and approved by the State Board of Sculpture. The monument will be unveiled in June.

A field day was held at Morris Cove, on September 16, on account of being near the spot where the British troops were landed upon their attempt to burn New Haven. The field day was arranged so that the members of the Connecticut Society could get better acquainted with each other. It was largely attended, and all enjoyed the excellent shore dinner that was served and the addresses that were made after the dinner.

The Society held its annual banquet at the Hotel Stratfield in Bridgeport on Washington's birthday, and was attended by over 250 members. President Lewis B. Curtis, of the Connecticut Society, acted as toastmaster. The other speakers were President General Morris B. Beardsley, of the National Society; Governor Frank B. Weeks; Mayor Edward T. Buckingham, of Bridgeport; Mayor Edward W. Hooker, of Hartford; Colonel John W. Vrooman, of New York City.

A Hartford Branch of the Connecticut Society was formed January 17, 1910, and great interest has been shown in the new organization. The Branch has been named the Colonel Jeremiah Wadsworth Branch, in honor of that most prominent patriot in Hartford during the Revolutionary War, and his splendid work as Commissary General under General Washington.

The District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution was one of the first to be organized, and during its steady growth of over twenty years the enthusiasm of its members has never flagged. Every one of the 523 members of the Society seems to take a personal interest in its work. Since the last Congress 25 new members have been elected, one member was received by transfer and nine were reinstated, making a total of 35 additions to the membership. The Society meetings were adjourned after the May outing, to meet in November, and a meeting has been held each month. On July 3 the Society took part in the unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of the founder of the Grand Army of the Republic, in Washington, D. C., and in celebrating the fourth of July the District Society joined with the civic organizations in a patriotic program. Six regular meetings have been held and made exceedingly interesting and instructive by addresses from the Hon. Morris Sheppard, Rev. J. Henning Nelms, Mr. Barry Bulkley, Prof. Charles E. Munroe and Mr. Claude N. Bennett. The Society is in a prosperous condition, financially and otherwise, and is looking forward to an exceptional year's work. It has a permanent fund of over $3300, and there is under consideration the awarding of the National Society medal to pupils of the high schools of Washington for the best essays on patriotic subjects, together with the raising of the American flag on the public buildings at a fixed hour each day.

The Illinois Society has had a good year in all particulars. Its activities may be summarized briefly as follows:

Membership.—The number of members in good standing April 18, 1910, is 576. Included in the new members added during the year are the Governor of the State, a former Lieutenant Governor and some of the leading business men and clergymen of the State.

Meetings.—The Board of Managers has met frequently and the Society has held its usual quarterly and annual meetings, with increasing attendance and interest, and with lectures and addresses of historic, educational and civic value. The annual banquet, on Yorktown day, was the largest and one of the most successful gatherings ever held by the Society.

Local Chapters.—Several Chapters exist in different cities of the State. Notably at Springfield, the State capital, and at Oak Park, in both of which communities the influence of the Chapter has been felt through well-attended gatherings and emphasis upon patriotic principles.

Appropriations.—The Society has appropriated $75 for the placing of statuettes of Revolutionary minute men in the public schools, and $25 for the erection of a suitable monument in honor of James Lemon, a Revolutionary soldier and an early Southern Illinois pioneer.

Administration.—Eight delegates from the Society attended the National Congress at Baltimore.

Mr. John D. Vandercook, who has continuously served as Secretary during the eighteen years of the existence of the Society, during all of which time he has rendered diligent, energetic and efficient service, has, owing to pressure of business, deemed it best to decline re-election. The loss of his service in this office is a great one. It is a matter of satisfaction to his compatriots that the Society still has the benefit of his counsel as its First Vice-President.

Library.—During the year substantial addition has been made to the books in the library of the Society, and they have been more generally used than ever before. On May 1 the library removes to larger quarters in the same building and it is expected that the better quarters will be unceasingly a center of interest in the Society activities.

Recommendations.—We believe that some general movement, fostered by the National Society, which would tend to create nation-wide interest in membership in the Society, and which would be calculated to impress upon all our eligible citizenship, something of the dignity, importance and value of membership would be of large value.

We would also recommend that the National Society prepare and place before each State Society a list of approved ways and methods of carrying on Society work and of enhancing the influence of the Society in the various States.

The Iowa Society during the past year has made no radical departure from the path followed in recent years. But this Society has continued to promote at least one of the objects of our existence as a Society, declared to be "to foster true patriotism," by continuing the offering of its bronze medal to colleges to be awarded to the student doing the best work in the study of the history of the United States, and by encouraging the compatriots in offering a specially designed bronze medal to be competed for in high schools for excelling in the study of the history of the United States, likewise.

In 1909 the Society presented sixteen medals to college students who won them under the offer alluded to and six medals to high school students for similar excellence in the study of the history of the United States.

This offer was made again at the commencement of the school year now in progress to a still greater number of collegiate and university institutions and competitions are now going on in eighteen universities and colleges, if the Secretary is correctly informed. Meantime numerous compatriots have offered the high school medal for competition in their favorite schools, and the prospect now is bright for the awarding of fifteen high school medals, at the close of the present year.

The compatriots are strong in the faith that patriotism will receive a strong impulse among the young by this emulation in the study of the history of our country.

The Society encourages the formation of Chapters, and the frequent meetings of Chapters for the discussion of patriotic subjects and the close examination into Revolutionary motives and measures and events, and the leading of thought up, into and upon the higher levels where patriotism flourishes. Since October 19 there has been a net gain in membership of fourteen. We have also four applicants for membership to be voted upon at the coming celebration of the battles of Concord and Lexington, April 19.

The Society is in a very healthy state of growth, our President, Mr. George Lewis Danforth, manifesting a great deal of interest in the affairs of the Society and our Board of Managers also attend meetings very regularly.

The Chairman of our Membership Committee, Mr. William K. Boardman, has addressed letters to the Regents and members of the twenty-two Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the State of Kentucky, soliciting their interest and aid in securing their brothers, husbands and fathers as members of the Kentucky Society.

We believe that the aid of the Daughters will prove of great value to the Sons and by another year we are confident that the Kentucky Society will show a largely increased membership. There are many men in Kentucky who are eligible to membership, and it is our hope that we will be able to establish Chapters in different parts of the State.

We are having celebrations of the regular anniversaries provided for in the manual of the National Society, as well as February 22, the last one being held at the Walnut Street Baptist Church.

The Society has under consideration the placing of a "marker" of the battle between the British and Indians and Americans near Mt. Sterling, Ky., and also placing a "marker" at Twelfth and Rowan Streets, in this city, in commemoration of the battle that was fought between the Indians and the Americans under Colonel Chenoweth in Revolutionary time.

It is with no little gratification that I can state that the Louisiana Society continues active and true to the traditions of the National Society and the spirit of our Constitution and By-laws. To begin with, let me say that the Louisiana Society is justly proud of the honor conferred upon it and our Southland by the Baltimore Congress of the National Society in electing our past President, Col. Peter F. Pescud, as one of the Vice-Presidents General of the National Society.

Of course we continue the beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of the Revolutionary soldiers buried in the old St. Louis cemetery. On last fourth of July flowers were placed on their tombs; and on All Saints' day we not only made floral offerings, but placed wreaths thereon tied with the National colors and decorated the surroundings with the American, French and Spanish flags. We did not, as heretofore, commemorate Washington's birthday this year with a reunion and banquet. Lent and the Mardi-Gras festivities caused our changing "the day we celebrate" to Jefferson's birthday. While that spirit of enthusiasm which always prevails in our midst on the recurrence of our observance of Washington's birthday seemed lacking, nevertheless, we heard some eloquent responses to the toasts proposed. We had a fine gathering of gentlemen and all united in making the evening a most enjoyable one. Patriotic toasts were given, patriotic songs were sung and patriotic accessories in the shape of Jefferson buttons, silk American flags and the colors of the National Society, and last, but not the least, the floral effect gave a truly American aspect to the distinguished assembly of comnatriots and representatives of the army and navy—guests of the Society.

The Maryland Society held its annual meeting at Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore, on October 19, when the officers were elected.

The Society received a set of handsomely engrossed and framed Resolutions from the New Jersey Society, thanking the Maryland Society for its hospitable entertainment at the last Congress at Baltimore and Annapolis.

Historian Bibbins reported as of special local interest the restoration of Mount Clare, the oldest pre-Revolutionary memorial in Baltimore, to its original design, as built by Charles Carroll, the barrister, in 1756. Carroll was one of the most distinguished men of his time and the author, in part, of most of the conspicuous State documents, the Maryland Declaration of Rights and the State Constitution. The Society purposes to gather in pamphlet form all available data regarding the Maryland signers of the Declaration, with photographs of the signers themselves, their homes and graves.

Vice-President James E. Hancock read a paper on "The Development of the Southern Campaign that Led up to the Surrender at Yorktown," including the surrender of Cornwallis and the closing of the war by the signing of the treaty of peace between England and the United States. The reader gave an epitome of the battles of Cowpens, Kings Mountain and Guilford Courthouse, of Greene's retreat through the Carolinas, of Cornwallis' retiring to Wilmington and to Yorktown, and of the final master stroke of Washington and Lafayette in surrounding Corwallis at Yorktown and forcing his surrender.

Dr. Iglehart exhibited several photographs of the home of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, portraits of him and his wife, and photographs of the chapel and monument in the Doughoregan Manor, in which Carroll was buried.

Eight members are sons of Revolutionary soldiers. The Massachusetts Society has had, since its formation, sixty-four who were actually Sons of the American Revolution; three have died since making the previous report. We also have lost by death many valued members, among them John H. Manning, of Pittsfield, a Vice-President; Edwin B. Story, of Northampton, President and founder of the "General Seth Pomeroy" Chapter of that city; former President Charles E. Adams, Charles D. Palmer and Francis N. Chase, of Lowell; Gorham D. Gilman, of Newton; Arthur B. Breed, of Lynn; Alvin F. Sortwell, of Cambridge.

Although we have made but a slight gain numerically, the cause of patriotism and civic pride is well maintained. The Official Bulletin has so well reported our doings that a reiteration is needless. The erection of a "bay" in the "Cloister of the Colonies," forming a part of the Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge, was accomplished, and appropriate dedicatory exercises held June 19, 1909. Apropos to this subject, the patriotic societies in this State, through Mr. Walter Gilman Page, of Boston, introduced a resolve in the Massachusetts Legislature petitioning for the erection of a monument at Valley Forge in memory of the soldiers of Massachusetts, who comprised 40 per cent of Washington's army encamped there in December, 1777. The hearing before the Legislative Committee was attended by delegates from each Society, who spoke earnestly in favor of the project.

The fall meeting, or field day, was held September 25, 1909, at Salem, the principal event of the day being the dedication of a handsome bronze tablet in memory of Capt. Jonathan Haraden, which was placed on the house where he died in Salem.

The Old State House in Boston has been restored to almost its original appearance. The east basement of the building contains an entrance to the East Boston tunnel, and the West End narrowly escaped being desecrated for an entrance to the subway; this was averted by vigorous protests made by this and other Societies.

Recently the elevated railroad placed an illuminated sign to show the entrance to the tunnel; this so detracted from the design of restoration that a protest was made by this and other Societies, which had the immediate and desired effect to cause its removal.

Our annual meetings are held in the Old South Meeting House, and the banquets at the American House, both of which customs have been so satisfactory that no disposition has been shown to change. Our meeting April 19, 1910, had a military feature which distinguished it from previous meetings. The trooping of the colors by a detachment from the "Lancers," commanded by Compatriot Capt. J. S. Barrows, and the escort to the American House were much appreciated.

Several distinguished guests and speakers honored the occasion, including Hon. Morris B. Beardsley; Rev. George L. Parker, whose theme was "Liberty at Home and Abroad"; Rev. Edward A. Horton; Brigadier General Philip Reade, U. S. Army (retired), whose topic was "The Faith, the Fashion and the Fire-Arms of our Forefathers"; D. Chauncey Brewer, president of the North American Civic League for Immigrants; and C. Bertrand Thompson, who spoke on "Efficient Patriotism."

The Massachusetts Society has fifteen Chapters; the one in Lynn has largely increased its membership through the efforts of its Secretary, Mr. Luther Atwood. The Chapters in Springfield, Boston, Chelsea, Lowell and Malden hold regular meetings, which are well attended. Occasional meetings are held by other Chapters; the Northampton Chapter did good work by procuring 130 markers to be placed at the graves of Revolutionary soldiers next Memorial day.

MINNESOTA SOCIETY.

The Minnesota Society has enrolled since its organization December 12, 1889, a total of 712 members. The losses to April 19, 1910, have been, by death 139, demitted 22, resigned 20; leaving a present total of 531, of whom 302 are active and 229 dormant members. Twelve new members were elected in 1909. The cash balance in the treasury December 26, 1909, was $105.80, which, with the annual dues, leaves the Society in a very satisfactory financial condition.

The Society held its annual banquet at the Town and County Club, St. Paul, on the evening of June 17, 1909, with a large attendance. Many ladies, including members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, being present with us.

The annual meeting of December 26, 1909, was well attended, followed by an enjoyable banquet, with remarks by prominent members. In view of the fact that the annual meeting occurring in the holidays, causes the absence of many who would otherwise be present, the time of our annual meeting was then fixed to occur hereafter in January.

On February 22 this Society joined with other patriotic societies of the City of St. Paul in the observance of the day by appropriate services.

On the whole, your reporter feels safe in promising an increased interest for the year 1910, greater effort for new members (the last two meetings show it), and a continued advance toward a lasting prosperity.

From the great interest manifested by the Nebraska schools in 1909, it was determined that on April 19 of each year an address be read before the schools of the State by members of the Society, or where not available, by the teachers or school principals, covering such patriotic subjects as will be selected by the Society.

A resolution was adopted, and ordered forwarded to the Senators and Congressmen of Nebraska, as follows:

"WHEREAS, The battleship 'Maine' lies in the bottom of Havana Harbor, a menace to navigation, and containing not only the bodies of American sailors, but the secrets of the ship's destruction, and in the interests of humanity, patriotism and history it should be raised.

"Therefore, be it Resolved by the Sons of the American Revolution for the State of Nebraska, in annual convention assembled, that the said battleship should be raised or removed, and that we petition Congress to cause this work to be done."

Increased efforts will be made this year to enlarge the membership of the Society, and to the organization of local Chapters in the larger cities of the State.

The New Jersey Society has been specially active during the year in the enrollment of new members and in various lines of patriotic work. On June 29, 1909, at Spring Lake, the Society celebrated the 131st anniversary of the battle of Monmouth, about 250 members and guests being in attendance. Addresses were delivered at the New Monmouth Hotel by Judge Edward S. Atwater, President of the New Jersey Society; Governor Fort, ex-President; Rev. Dr. William F. Whitaker and Rev. Dr. A. A. Willitts, of Spring Lake, who is eighty-eight years old. Dr. Willitts chose "Patriotism" as his topic. He urged those present to take an interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the government and praised New Jersey in glowing terms. He declared that women are already doing their share in maintaining patriotism.

The Society held its twenty-first annual meeting on January 3, in the assembly rooms of the New Jersey Historical Society, Newark. The proceedings of the meeting have been published in a pamphlet of 24 pages by Secretary James R. Mullikin. President Atwater reviewed the Society's work, showing a very active year. The Secretary reported the largest year's growth in the history of the Society.

A resolution was unanimously adopted favoring the establishment of a National Park and the erection of a memorial bridge on the Delaware River at the point where General Washington and his army crossed on Christmas night, 1776.

A banquet in memory of Washington, his officers and men, who suffered great privations at the encampment at Morristown in the winter of 1777, was held at the Woman's Club, East Orange, on the evening of February 4, attended by about 200 members. An address of greeting was delivered by Judge Edward S. Atwater, President of the New Jersey State Society, who also made the presentation address of the Society's testimonial to Mr. George Curtis Sterling, founder and President of Montclair Chapter No. 3, consisting of engrossed resolutions of thanks for his untiring efforts in forming the Montclair Chapter. Addresses were made by President General Morris B. Beardsley; Rev. Dr. William Force Whitaker; Hon. C. A. Pugsley, President of the Empire State Society, on "The Development of the Republic," and by Rev. W. Warren Giles.

Orange Chapter gave a reception at East Orange on December 9, 1909, to the members who were organizing a Chapter in Montclair, the Elizabethtown Chapter, and Judge Atwater, President of the New Jersey Society. Over one hundred members and guests were present. Addresses were made by President Atwater, President Parrot, of the Elizabethtown Chapter; Mr. George Curtis Sterling, of Montclair, and by several others.

The Montclair Chapter was organized on January 4, 1910, with over one hundred charter members. About two hundred members and guests were present. Addresses were delivered by Mr. George Curtis Sterling, organizer and President of the Chapter; by President General Beardsley, ex-President General Pugsley, Vice-President General Veale, President Curtis, of Connecticut, and several others.

The Society is preparing a Year-Book, giving a history of the Society for the past five years. A committee has been appointed to prepare a report on the New Jersey signers of the Declaration of Independence, with a view to securing the proper marking of their graves, as recommended at the Baltimore Congress.

At the annual meeting in January, a report was made by the Committee on the Springfield Battle Grounds and Cemetery, through its Chairman, Rev. John Hobart Egbert. This committee consists of Compatriots Charles H. K. Halsey, Charles S. Kiggins, David L. Pierson and Rev. John Hobart Egbert.

The Society, some years ago, received a conveyance for a small tract of land in Springfield in which some of those who fell in the battle of Springfield, were buried, and provision has been made for the right of way from Morris Avenue to this plot. Arrangements have been made for the erection of a flag-staff on this plot and for the improvement and adornment of the plot with shrubbery etc., and also for the erection of a suitable marker on Morris Avenue, showing the entrance to this cemetery plot.

It is proposed to hold a meeting in commemoration of the battle of Springfield on these grounds on June 23, the anniversary of the battle, and it is earnestly hoped that the members of the Society will make their arrangements to be present. Further notice will be given.

The Society has established State headquarters in the Meeker Building, Newark, where the records of the Society are kept and information may be had there as to what measures should be taken to join the Society and how information may be obtained as to ancestry showing the right to membership. The Board of Managers desire to aid all persons seeking such information. J. R. MULLIKIN, Secretary.

Of the total membership 1312 are active, 31 inactive and 8 honorary.

The usual stated meetings of the Society and Board of Managers have been held during the year. Over one hundred new members have been added to the roll, many who have neglected to pay their dues have been dropped, death has taken twenty-five, a few have resigned and yet we have more active members than ever before.

The annual election of officers took place on April 20, 1909 and resulted in the election of the same officers as the year before. At this meeting the Hon. Lewis Nixon delivered his lecture, "The Merchant Marine Under the Constitution."

We proposed to the superintendent of West Point Military Academy that we be allowed to place bronze tablets at points of historic interest within the grounds of the Military Reservation at that place, but were informed that the Government had the matter in hand. He advised us to thus mark certain places outside of the Reservation, but this was not favorably considered owing to the possibility of such markers being removed, there being no way to prevent them from being stolen, as had been done at places where no means had been provided for their protection.

The Society took an active part in the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, manning three floats in the Historical Parade on September 28, while many of our members were on the different committees. Our stand, erected on Central Park West from 69th to 71 Streets, held over 2000 people and was crowded with our members and their friends at each of the three parades.

We made our usual donation of $50 to the American Flag Association at the Society meeting on October 10, 1909. At this meeting we were presented with an elegant steel engraving of the painting in the Capitol at Washington of "Baron Steuben at Valley Forge, 1778," by the artist, Compatriot Augustus G. Heaton. Compatriot William Sherer, manager of the New York Clearing House, gave us a very interesting address upon "Colonial and Modern Banking Methods."

Arrangements have been made with a compatriot living in Paris, France, to see that a United States flag is placed over the grave of Lafayette each Decoration day.

The annual banquet of the Society was held at the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of November 20, 1909, at which nearly three hundred members and their friends were present. The speakers were: Hon. Morris B. Beardsley, President General of the Sons of the American Revolution; Rev. S. Edward Young, D. D.; Jacob Gould Schurman, LL. D., of Cornell University; Mr. William H. McElroy; and Hon. William H. Wadhams. These speeches will be printed in our Year-Book for 1909-1910.

On Sunday evening, February 27, 1910, the annual church service was held at the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, New York City, at which Compatriot Rev. Charles L. Goodell, D. D., the pastor, and Chaplain of the Society, preached from the text, "Let there be no strife between me and thee, for we are brethren."

During the year our Special Fund has been increased very substantially and now amounts to over $10,000, the income from which it is proposed will be used towards erecting tablets at historic points.

We have presented portraits of Washington to the Washington Irving High School and Public School No. 23 in New York City, Northside High School and Technical High School of Syracuse, St. John's Military School at Manlius, N. Y., High School at Huntington, N. Y., and to the Huntington Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. We have also had placed one of these portraits in the Sulgrave Manor House, at Banbury, England, where the ancestors of Washington lived. The Mayor of Banbury has kindly consented to act as custodian of this portrait and the town clerk writes us that he had it hung in the hall so all that visited the house can see it. OREGON SOCIETY.

The Oregon Society, on September 23, celebrated the 130th anniversary of the naval battle between the "Serapis" and the "Bonhomme Richard." The paper of the evening was on the life and public services of John Paul Jones. About seventy-five gentlemen were present, a larger attendance than ever before at that character of a gathering.

The Society offered prizes totaling $100 to be awarded to the pupils of the public schools of the State of Oregon, for essays on subjects connected with the War for Independence. One prize of $10 and three of $5 each will be awarded for the first, second, third and fourth best essays, respectively, written by high school pupils on one of the following subjects: (1) "The Influence of Alexander Hamilton upon the Republic"; (2) "The Turning Point of the Revolutionary War."

The committee has divided up the State, exclusive of the high schools, into three districts. One prize of $10 and three of $5 each will be awarded in each district for the first, second, third and fourth best essays, respectively, written by grade pupils on any one of the following subjects: (1) "The Capture and Trial of Major André"; (2) "The Winter at Valley Forge"; (3) "The Women and Children of '76—Their Trials and Privations."

The Society celebrated the birthday of Benjamin Franklin by holding a "smoker" on the evening of January 17, when a paper was read on the less familiar phases of Franklin's life, giving a great deal of information about his work in the City of Philadelphia and Province of Pennsylvania for thirty or forty years prior to the Revolution.

The annual business meeting and banquet was held at Portland on February 22.

President Wallace McCamant presided at the banquet. Addresses were made by Hon. William D. Fenton, Hon. Robert S. Bean, W. W. Cotton, D. Solis Cohen and Edgar B. Piper, and informal remarks by Gen. Thomas M. Anderson, U. S. A.

The Pennsylvania Society is compiling a list of the places of burial of all who served in the War of the Revolution and are buried in that State, or are ancestors of members of the State Society and buried elsewhere. Printed blanks have been used in gathering the data. These show the name, place and date of birth and of death, and locate the grave whether it be in a city, village or country graveyard. President Stanton commends this plan to other State Societies. Thomas Stephen Brown, Historian of the Society, 1101 Berger Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., will furnish sample copies of the blanks mentioned.

The Society has been active in the distribution of the immigrant leaflets and reports the work interesting and profitable.

The Membership Committee is making a list of men eligible to the Society and the names are divided with discretion among members who are expected to personally see the eligible person, and if the first visitor fails in any case another visitor is tried. This plan of "personal touch" is expected to bring good results.

The annual business meeting was held at Pittsburgh on February 22. The reports of the officers showed that much had been accomplished in patriotic lines, and that the Society is in excellent condition, about 75 new members having been added.

At the annual banquet about 115 were present. The principal addresses were by Hon. Hampton L. Carson, on "Washington in His Relation to the National Idea," and Henry Russell Miller, Esq., on "Our Inheritance."

A souvenir of the banquet was a pamphlet, with colored illustrations, on the history of "Our Flag," by Francis Scott Key, 3d.

The Philadelphia Chapter held its annual meeting and banquet on January 17. The special feature of interest was an address by Major Moses Veale, President of the Chapter, on "The Settlement of Our Country."

The Philadelphia Chapter, on the evening of April 19, held exercises in commemoration of the battle of Lexington, and presented to the pupils of the eighth grade of four of the grammar schools of the city medals for competitive essays on the subject of the "Principles of the American Revolution." The medal was one especially provided for the purpose. There were 74 essays presented from the four schools, and the medalists were four boys aged 13, 14 and 15 years. The exercises were held in the Assembly Room of the Central High School.

The program for the evening was opened by Mr. Clarence P. Wynne, President of the Chapter, introducing Major Moses Veale, President of the Pennsylvania Society, who acted as presiding officer, after making a patriotic speech. The other gentlemen who made speeches and presented medals were Admiral George W. Melville, U. S. N.; Henry R. Edmunds, Esq.; Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh; and Col. George E. Mapes.

The Chapter purposes making it an annual custom to present medals to school children in Philadelphia for essays on patriotic subjects.

Since February 22 we have lost two members by death; one of them was a son of a Revolutionary soldier.

We still continue marking the graves of Revolutionary heroes, distributing leaflets and distributing maps of the Revolutionary defenses of Rhode Island to the high schools in the State, for the classes in history.

Our annual service on last Memorial day was held at the monument of Com. Esek Hopkins, which was as usual a great success. Flag day, June 14, is generally observed throughout the State.

On September 25, 1909, this Society, in connection with the Massachusetts Society Sons of the American Revolution, by whom it was invited, attended a celebration at the old historic town of Salem, Mass.

On October 27, 1909, we attended the unveiling of a tablet marking the house where Com. Esek Hopkins at one time lived.

Our Society has the use of one of the rooms in the house. The other societies having rooms are the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames and the Colonial Wars. The City of Providence takes care of the house and grounds, as it was deeded to the city by Mr. Gould, a descendant of Com. Esek Hopkins, for a public park.

We held our annual meeting on February 22 at the Rhode Island Historical Society, and a banquet at the Narragansett Hotel in the evening, at which the Governor of our State, the Mayor of the city and John S. Crosby, Esq., of New York, and William P. Sheffield, Esq., our Representatives to Congress, delivered fine addresses.

At the annual meeting the Society appropriated its usual contribution of $100 towards the statue of Gen. Nathanael Greene, which we hope to have in the State sometime.

The new Chapters in our Society have all organized and are a benefit to the Society in the way of recruiting.

Altogether, we consider that the past year has been a very successful one.

There are three local chapters in the State as follows: Seattle Chapter, with a membership of 44; Spokane, 41; and Alexander Hamilton Chapter, of Tacoma, 27 members. It is expected that Chapters will be formed within the year at North Yakima, Olympia and several other cities in the State.

The annual meeting and election was held at Tacoma on the afternoon of February 22.

Flag day was celebrated by raising the tallest flag-staff in the United States on the grounds of the University of Washington, at Seattle, where last year was held the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. A detachment of the Third Infantry was in attendance and raised the flag, accompanied by music and appropriate military ceremonies. The tree from which the flag-staff was made was donated by the Page Lumber Company, of Buckley, Wash.

On the same day our Society participated with the Daughters of the American Revolution in the ceremony of unveiling the bronze statue of George Washington, to which this Society contributed $500.

The State Society is having made an appropriate bronze tablet to be placed on the base of the flag-staff.

The annual contests for prizes given by the State Society for orations upon Revolutionary subjects were held as usual about February 22 in each of the high schools of Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane.

COMMITTEE ON ADVANCE WORK.

Mr. VANDERCOOK: There is a little, inoffensive resolution that I would like to offer. I would like to say that all the speeches in favor of it have already been made. If you will pardon me, I will come to the front, because I have thought of this resolution for fifteen years. This morning this resolution was a little longer than it is now, but good judgment prevailed and it has been condensed. Mr. President General, I think I will hand this in for the Secretary General to read, and I want to say one word only; that is, that this resolution is not in any way a reflection upon the work of the committee of which Commander Moore has charge, but an extension of it. I have been Secretary for eighteen years of the Illinois Society, but recently felt obliged to retire. Almost every man wants to know what we did, and that is the reason for offering this resolution.

WHEREAS, The Constitution of this Society, under Article II, recites that among the objects of the Society is the following, "To maintain and extend the institution of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble to the Constitution of our country and the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people,"

Be it Resolved, That the President General of this Society is hereby instructed to appoint a committee of five to take under advisement some plan of work which shall carry out the purposes of the Society, as above expressed, to the end that the Society shall interest itself in matters of present-day importance and by such work attract large numbers to membership.

(Motion that the resolution be adopted was duly seconded and carried.)

Judge Stockbridge moved that the Vandercook resolution, as to its subject-matter, other than the appointment of the committee, be referred to the Executive Committee in order that the committee to be appointed may have the advantage of any suggestions which the Executive Committee may be able to give them.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

PRESIDENT GENERAL'S TERM OF OFFICE.

Mr. McCLARY: Would it be in order to ask the floor for a moment for the purpose of making a suggestion, not accompanied by a resolution or a motion? I would like at this time to make one, if I may be permitted.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Has Mr. McClary the unanimous consent of the Congress?

(Voices, yes.)

Mr. PRESIDENT GENERAL AND COMPATRIOTS: I have asked the privilege of the floor that I might make a suggestion for your consideration which I do not think it advisable at this time to embody in a resolution. I simply wish to sow a little good seed. It is only within the past five minutes that I have decided that the present is an opportune time to present the matter, although it is a thing which I have thought much about and concerning which I have talked with many of the best informed members of this Society—men who have had wide experience in Sons of the American Revolution affairs and who have the interests of the Society very much at heart.

It is with reference to the precedent which we have established concerning a single term of office for our President General—only one year and no re-election. For more than ten years we have rigorously adhered to this principle and I think that it is working injury to the Society.

I am familiar with the circumstances which led to the establishment of this precedent, but conditions have changed and I see no sufficient reason for now continuing the practice. I am a believer in the principle of rotation in office—frequent rotation, if you please—in a Society like ours, but have we not carried it too far? Have we not, by binding ourselves down to this unwritten iron rule, greatly hampered the growth and lessened the efficiency and prosperity of our Society? I believe so.

Unfortunate as it might be, doubtless would be, to perpetuate an administration indefinitely, have we not gone to the other extreme?

Surely it is possible to conceive of an administration's having too short a time to get fairly under way and accomplish what it might if given reasonable time. We elect our Presidents General in the spring. It takes time to make up the committees and get acceptances. Responses are often slow, but it is necessary to wait for acceptances, as otherwise the men appointed would not feel the proper degree of responsibility and could not be depended upon to do the work assigned. By the time the committees are made up summer is at hand, people are away from home, State Societies are not holding meetings and it is almost impossible to accomplish anything while the vacation period lasts. It is well into the fall before real connection with the State Societies can be established. Just as the National administration is beginning to get into touch with the State Societies, learning to whom to appeal to get things done, these Societies begin to hold elections and many of the State administrations change. The National administration then has to begin all over again with another set of officers. Before the Chapters and individual members know what the purposes and policies of the administration are, before things are fairly under way, the short winter is gone, the coming Congress with its work is upon the administration and projects which, if matured, would result in great benefit and increased efficiency of the Society are too often lost sight of. In a one-year term the President General has neither the time nor the opportunity to accomplish much. He has to spend the most of that year getting ready to do things. The Society is too widely distributed and the organization too complex to expect the best possible results from a one-year term with re-election barred by precedent.

The reason that the present time seems opportune for suggesting a change of policy is that for the first time in several years we do not seem to have any candidate for a year ahead. There seems to be no well-defined plan as to the succession beyond the gentleman whom we shall elect as President General this afternoon. Heretofore the politics of the Society might well have deterred us from considering this question in open Congress. I do not mean petty politics, but just the natural looking ahead. Men have often been slated for this high office years in advance by their friends or by State Societies, and under such circumstances one might well hesitate to propose a change of policy which might look like opposition to someone who was thought to be in line for the President Generalship. I am not criticising this slating, it may often be wise and best, I am only calling your attention to the fact that we happen just at present to be free from it, so that we may discuss a change of policy without risk of injuring anyone's feelings, without any possibility of misunderstanding of motives. I am sure that no one will believe that I have an "ax to grind." It may be years before we again find ourselves in a similar position. From the nature of the proposed change of policy it can, of course, only be successfully applied in the future. In fairness to all it is necessary that notice be given that a change of policy is thought wise by some of our members and that they will not consider themselves bound by the old precedent next year. This, therefore, is an opportune time to present the matter.

I propose that we hereafter ignore the precedent of one term only and that we leave ourselves free to re-elect a year hence the gentleman whom we shall elect this afternoon, provided we approve of his first year's administration.

I suppose that most of us think that we know who will be elected President General here this afternoon and I wish to say right here that the gentleman to whom I refer has not been consulted concerning this matter, nor has he had any intimation that such a change of policy as I am urging was to be here proposed. I would not have dared to have gone to him with it, and great as is my friendship for him, much as I admire his ability and appreciate his character, it is not at all because he happens to be the candidate at this time that I am advocating the policy of one re-election. I am not impelled by personal friendship nor personal considerations, but by the sincere belief that it is a matter of vital importance to our National Society that the administration should have more time in which to get its bearings and do its work.

Let us throw down this bar which we have placed in the way of our progress. Let us come here next year with open minds ready to re-elect our President General if we then believe that the real interests of our Society will thereby be best served, not barred by a foolish precedent which would compel us to drop a man of proven efficiency who is just getting fairly started in his work.

Rotation is well, but one year is ordinarily too short a time to accomplish much in a great, widely distributed and complex Society like ours. Many of our State Societies have found the one-year term too short, although there is less reason for a longer term in State Societies than in the National. The Illinois Society recently changed its Constitution so that it might get back to the former practice of re-electing a President for a second term or more. We became convinced that our State Society was suffering by reason of the restriction to one term of one year.

The efficiency of a good administration would be 100 per cent greater the second year than the first, let the first be as good as it may; let it be equal even to the present admirable administration or to the strong administration immediately preceding it. We just get a President General fairly at work, then we turn him out.

The Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is younger than our own. It elects its President General for a term of two years and may re-elect. It has, of course, practically the same number of eligibles to draw its membership from as we do. At the present time it outnumbers us more than five to one and is a marvelously enthusiastic and efficient organization. Do you think for a moment that the Daughters of the American Revolution would stand where it does if it had limited its Presidents General to one-year terms with no re-election. I firmly believe that had they hampered themselves with rules and precedents such as ours their membership would to-day be less than half what it is.

Let us remove this impediment to our growth and efficiency by ignoring this foolish precedent in the future. Let us, if you like, even establish a precedent of one re-election where the administration has been satisfactory. No change in Constitution is necessary, nor do I believe any is desirable. All we have to do is to come here next year with open minds and elect the man whom it then seems to us will do most for the Society during the following year, without regard to the old precedent of one term only.

I have not thought that it would be best to embody this proposition in a resolution. I simply make the suggestion for your consideration and the consideration of your constituents during the coming year. If you think that there is any wisdom in it, come back next year with open and unprejudiced minds and vote for the best man for the place, without regard to precedent.

NATIONAL PARK TO COMMEMORATE WASHINGTON CROSSING THE DELAWARE.

Mr. Howe: Mr. President General, there is a matter that very much concerns New Jersey and concerns the entire United States. As you all know, New Jersey was the battlefield of the Revolution, and while the majority of the fighting men came from New England, it was in New Jersey that they fought. During the last few months we have had called to our attention in New Jersey the fact that the exact spot where Washington led his little army across the Delaware River lies in about the same condition it did when that crossing was made, and that except for a marker or a monument put there on the river bank some twenty-five or thirty years ago by the Society of the Cincinnati, nothing has been done to mark that old crossing. Standing there near this monument is the old ferryman's house where Washington tarried for a time in the early morning while the army was being re-formed on the Jersey shore and was then led in triumph to Trenton and Princeton. Our compatriot, Governor Fort, of New Jersey, without any special authority of law, appointed a commission of citizens, who, at their own expense organized and began the preliminary work of saving this old battleground from being bought up by speculators and used for other purposes. The last session of the Legislature of New Jersey, just closed, ratified the action of the Governor and made a small appropriation for the preliminary expenses of this commission. The idea of all those interested in it is that a National Park should be established on both sides of the Delaware River where Washington crossed, on the Pennsylvania side and on the New Jersey side. The land itself is beautifully located for that purpose. It is almost as though it had been specially designed for just that purpose, and if it should be connected some time with a memorial archway, it would make it an ideal marking and an ideal park. It is not very far from Valley Forge, as you know, and with the good roads throughout New Jersey it would make it an elegant road straight from Morristown over the old battlefields of Monmouth and Princeton and all through New Jersey. It is necessary that the public sentiment of the entire country be aroused and, therefore, sir, I desire to offer the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The Legislature of New Jersey at its last session ratified the action of Governor John Franklin Fort in the appointment of a commission, of which United States Senator Frank O. Briggs is chairman, to establish if possible a National Park and to properly mark and perpetuate the place where Washington crossed the Delaware River at the head of his little army of patriots and seized victory from defeat at Trenton and Princeton;

AND WHEREAS, The New Jersey Legislature has provided for the preliminary expenses of such commission;

AND WHEREAS, Our honored compatriot, Governor Fort, of New Jersey, has personally called the attention of Governor Stuart, of Pennsylvania, to this action to forever preserve this historic spot as it was "in the days that tried men's souls," for the benefit of their descendants and those who have since united with them, living in every State of the union;

AND WHEREAS, The old ferryman's house still stands in which Washington tarried for a time, while his enfeebled but valiant army was being re-formed on the Jersey shore for its victorious attack upon the Hessians at Trenton;

AND WHEREAS, The land on either bank of the Delaware River in the States of Pennsylvania and New Jersey remains very largely as it was in the old days, with the old road clearly defined, and Bear Tavern still standing, so that this patriotic purpose can now be accomplished at a minimum of expense and a maximum of benefit to posterity, in forever preserving perhaps the most spectacular battlefield of the Revolutionary War, and thus preserving one of our most sacred patriotic shrines; therefore

Be it Resolved, That the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in Congress assembled gives its most hearty endorsement to the noble and patriotic action of the Governor and Legislature of New Jersey, and commends the united action of the various patriotic societies of New Jersey in favor of this project, and urges upon all the State Societies of the Sons of the American Revolution and our individual members everywhere, the importance of active co-operation to secure favorable National legislation so that a suitable and permanent memorial of this great historical event may be established at the actual spot where it occurred.

And be it further Resolved, That the Secretary General be instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to each State Society, and that each State Society be requested to urge upon its Senators and Representatives in Congress immediate favorable action thereon.

(Motion to adopt the resolution made and seconded.)

Mr. WOODRUFF, of Michigan: As a new delegate I take peculiar interest in seconding this resolution. It may not be on the program that we should second it, but I think, sir, it is peculiarly fitting. My grandfather, by virtue of whose service I am a member of this Society, served seven years during the Revolutionary War with the New Jersey militia, and by virtue of his record I am a member of this Society. The crossing point was pointed out to me when I was in New Jersey and I took a great deal of interest in it. I think that if we are to have a National Park in New York, we should have one also in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and there is no place more fitting than that very spot, for it was one of the crucial periods of the Revolutionary War, and bye and bye when we get one in New Jersey and New York, we will ask for one in Michigan and other places. And let us have all the National Parks of this character that we can. (Applause.)

Major VEALE: It occurs to me that this is a matter of very great importance. Some of you may have heard it said, as I have, that if Washington lived to-day he would not be considered a great soldier. There was an address delivered at Valley Forge by a very distinguished gentleman not long ago in which he said Washington was not a soldier at all. He was not a general with any skill whatever. And a great many, I am afraid, have been affected with the same opinion. Von Moltke, not very long before he died, and he was possibly the greatest German strategist, said, "America has produced the greatest strategist of the age." He went on and illustrated what he had said and proved it conclusively by referring to the crossing of Washington over the Delaware where the British troops had entire possession of New Jersey from New York to the Delaware River. General Washington was certainly one of the greatest of strategists, and he proved it by showing that by crossing the Delaware River, a strategic movement, he had driven the English Army entirely out of New Jersey and penned them up in the City of New York. And then as to his tactical skill on the field, if you will remember that he had ordered General Lee to attack the English troops and turn the flank of the enemy, and when Lee, false to his trust, had failed to carry out the order and was retreating from the field, Washington came on the field and with his tactical skill turned that retreat into at least a drawn battle. Now this will be one of the memorials that will commemorate Washington's skill. By erecting across the river a memorial arch, and turning each side of the Delaware into a National Park, people from all parts of the world will be led to study these movements; going there and finding this grand arch, the great devotion and skill of Washington will be called to their attention. The more we study the life of George Washington, the dearer he becomes to us Americans, the greater he becomes, the grander and the more noble in every possible way. Anything that will go to perpetuate his memory, anything that will go to show the greatness of his acts, anything that will show forth what he did for us, what he did for the country, what he did for the independence of the people, what he did for the greatness of this great country to-day, ought to be done, and there is no Society that is more fit to do it than the Sons of the American Revolution. (Applause.)

(Mr. Jenks, of Illinois, and Colonel Howard, of New Jersey, also seconded Mr. Howe's resolution endorsing the establishment of a National Park in memory of Washington crossing the Delaware, and it was unanimously adopted.)

Mr. MAYNADIER, of Maryland: I wish to offer the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The Governor and Legislature of New Jersey has taken action looking to the establishment, if possible, of a National Park at the spot where Washington crossed the Delaware River, at perhaps the most critical period of the Revolutionary War, and turned defeat into victory.

AND WHEREAS, All the patriotic societies of New Jersey, with large numbers of its public spirited citizens, are actively co-operating to accomplish the patriotic purpose.

Be it Resolved, That the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in Congress assembled, respectfully urges upon Governor Stuart, of Pennsylvania, the great importance of permanently securing this historic spot, and properly marking the same, and to this end asks his active support and that of the Legislature of Pennsylvania in such manner as in their wisdom may seem best.

And be it Resolved, That we urge upon the public spirited citizens of Pennsylvania that steps be taken to arouse public sentiment and help in preserving to the nation this historic spot within their own borders.

(Motion to adopt the above resolution was duly seconded and carried.)

PROPOSED AMENDMENT: DELINQUENT MEMBERS.

Mr. MABELE, of New York: I wish to propose the following amendment: Amend Article III of the Constitution, entitled "Membership," by the insertion of a new Section 2, as follows: "No one shall be entitled to membership in any State Society who has previously been a member of any other State Society and dropped for the non-payment of dues, until the indebtedness of such individual to the first Society shall have been adjusted." Renumber Sections 2 and 3 so as to make them Sections 3 and 4. The form of this amendment has been approved by the Executive Committee.

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: I rise to a point of order; that all this Congress can do is to recommend this amendment and give notice so that it may be adopted at the next annual Congress, and I would move you that this Congress recommend the adoption of such amendment by the next annual Congress.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

(Adjournment to 9.30 a. m., Tuesday, May 3, 1910.)

Morning Session, May 3, 1910—9.30 a. m.

The Congress was called to order by President General Beardsley, and in the absence of a clergyman the members repeated the Lord's Prayer.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: At the hour of adjournment yesterday, we were on the subject of new business.

GEORGE WASHINGTON MEMORIAL BUILDING.

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: Mr. President General, I desire to offer a resolution, but before reading it, I want to give just a word of explanation.

Many of the compatriots have doubtless seen articles in the newspapers, or had communications, either personal or otherwise, with regard to a proposed George Washington memorial in the City of Washington. As originally drafted it was not of such a character as to appeal very much to the confidence of those of us who live in that immediate vicinity. The original plans have now been considerably modified and new vigor and a new potentiality has been forced into it. As all of the compatriots know, for a considerable time we have been under many obligations to the Smithsonian Institution, for the privileges which have been accorded to us, for a place for the preservation of our archives. The present plan of the George Washington memorial contemplates the erection at the National capital of a building that shall cost not less than $2,000,000, which shall be made available as a meeting place for all the patriotic and scientific societies of the country, and which shall provide an adequate space for permanent headquarters, and for the safeguarding of valuable records, files, and documents, which could never be replaced. It has been suggested that such a movement, or the concurrence in it upon our part, would be a step toward sending the annual Congress of this Society continuously to Washington. If I felt that such an idea was in contemplation, I should still be very much opposed to it, for I think that an essential part of the life of our organization is dependent upon its moving from year to year into the various sections of this country, coming in close personal contact with compatriots in all sections of the land, aiding them and drawing inspirations and enthusiasm for ourselves from them, and that is a condition that I would not for anything want to see abandoned. (Applause.) At the same time, I cannot fail to recognize that our quarters as they are at present are becoming more and more cramped; that it is of the utmost importance to us to have a safe place for the preservation of our valuable archives. I do not believe that this Congress should commit itself to any definite plan. I do not think that we are yet ready to say that we will commend or endorse in its entirety the plans as at present formulated for this George Washington Memorial Building. It does seem to me, however, that we are in a position where we can and would do well to express a concurrence in the general plan as outlined, and appoint a committee which should be in touch with these plans so as to secure for us any advantages which might accrue as a result of the completion of that undertaking. I, therefore, wish to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution approves the general plan of the George Washington Memorial Association of erecting a building in the City of Washington, adapted for the meeting place of patriotic, scientific and other organizations aiming to promote the welfare of the American people.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to confer and cooperate with the George Washington Memorial Association, under the supervision and direction of the Executive Committee of this Society.

And I move its adoption. (Motion seconded.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Compatriots, you have heard the resolution read by Judge Stockbridge. Will you remark upon it?

(Calls for question.)

(After some discussion as to the plans of the Memorial Association, the resolution offered by Judge Stockbridge was adopted.)

RESOLUTION OF THANKS.

Commander Moore: I have a resolution which I would like to offer. This resolution will need no words of introduction from me; it speaks for itself, and I move its adoption as follows:

Resolved, That the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution records its appreciation of and gratitude for the cordial, prompt and efficient co-operation of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the protest against the abandonment of the Division of Information in the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization.

Resolved, That the President General and Secretary General of this Society be directed to inform the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution of this action.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

INVITATIONS FOR 1911 CONGRESS.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Is there anything further under the head of new business? If not, at this stage of the proceedings, if there be no objection, I shall rule that the invitations for the next Congress are in order.

Mr. BALLARD THRUSTON, of Kentucky: Mr. President General, on behalf of the Kentucky Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, I want to extend to the National Society an invitation to hold our next Congress in the City of Louisville, Ky. I have here the formal invitation signed by our President and also by our Secretary, but I hardly deem that it is necessary to read that; but I assure you it is the earnest desire of the Kentucky Society to have you gentlemen, one and all, there. In addition to that I have here invitations from our Mayor and the Board of Trade and the Commercial Club. While these seem to be commercial organizations, they are, however, largely composed of men who are eligible to membership in the Sons of the American Revolution. I have here in addition a paper from the Tennessee Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and my co-delegate is their attorney in this case to vote for the Tennessee Society and to urge the acceptance of this invitation. In this letter I want to read to you merely one paragraph, and that is this: "Tennessee, with our more than 95 per cent of native-born population, and with a corresponding per cent of her people eligible to membership in this Society, is a fair representative of the southern section of our country, which needs the assistance and encouragement of the general Society." Now, gentlemen, in the early history of Kentucky there was an entering wedge of people whose homes had been overridden by the various armies of the Revolutionary War; many of these people had lost practically all their possessions, and in their western march they made this entering wedge, after crossing over those mountains, into that western home where they settled. Nearly every one of the early settlers of Kentucky was either from Virginia or Maryland or Pennsylvania or North Carolina, who came and settled in that western country. There were over 5000 men who fought in the Revolutionary war who settled in Kentucky and Tennessee. These men first settled in Kentucky; then many of them moved northward into Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Others moved southwest into Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama. That blood has gone all through that section, and when we go to those people now we can find everywhere those who are eligible to this Society. They came out in groups; sometimes they were members of the same families, sometimes they were friends, and I have to-day in Kentucky relatives whom I recognize and call by the name of cousins. I do not know the exact relationship; all that I know is that 130 years ago when my ancestors came to Kentucky their ancestors did also, and they were then cousins and they recognized that relationship, and that relationship is recognized to-day and will continue to be recognized for all time to come. (Applause.) These people settled in communities. They know each other. They know who their ancestors were. I know my neighbors and my neighbors know me. It is not necessary for me to wear a button or a badge, for they all know who I am and what I am. But when we go to these men and suggest to them that they join this Society, the first question is, "Well, what good will it do me to join that Society?" And the next question is, "What good is joining the Society going to be to my fellow men?" And there is the key; the key to the whole situation. Now I want these people of Kentucky to understand what this Society is, I want this Congress to come to Louisville and to have our citizens hear the reports of what you have done and what you are trying to do, and when they learn that, they will realize that this button is not a brand to show who you are or who your ancestors were, but what good you are trying to do to your fellow men. (Applause.) What I want is that this Congress should come down there and show to those people of the South what this Society is doing, what we are trying to do; that this button may show that we are trying to help our fellow men instead of branding us merely as descendants of some illustrious ancestors. (Applause.)

Dr. GUYER, of Colorado: Mr. President General and Fellow Compatriots—I am a native of New York, an adopted son of Colorado, and at the present time because of reasons of family health, a pilgrim in the state of California, the land of sunshine and flowers. I come before you this morning with one potent little credential—a telegram from President Thomas A. Perkins of the California Society:

> You and our delegates please present the hearty greetings of the California Society to the National Society Sons of the American Revolution assembled. The California Society cordially invites the National Society to meet in our state by the Golden Gate next year. California extends a welcome to all compatriots and their families.

It was in San Francisco in 1875 that the idea of a patriotic society of Revolutionary times first took root, and it is a source of great and pardonable pride with the compatriots of the society by the western sea that those who fostered that early organization have been and are those who constitute the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Let us accept their invitation to go and break bread with them, and gather around their hospitable hearthstone. The foreign element dominates in San Francisco, and the percentage of pure American people is alarmingly small. When the Panama Canal is completed, emigration from foreign shores will pour in, and our society needs a strong organization there to teach those emigrants to love our country and respect the flag. You can help them in this with your Congress of 1911. You are well organized on the eastern coast. You are sending out the literature upon the high seas. It is a noble work, but do not forget the west. Our society now is organized in every state west of the Missouri River—the geographical western half of our country. It has been a great and laborious task to do this, and of it all I may say, "Paul may plant and Apollos may water," but the "increase," such as we desire for our beloved society, can only come from the magnetic touch of the National Society. Give us that at San Francisco in 1911! (Applause.)

(The invitations to meet in Louisville and in San Francisco were seconded by several enthusiastic addresses by Mr. Leiper, Mr. Dewey, Mr. Howe, Mr. Woodruff, Mr. Higley, Colonel Guthrie, Mr. Hyde and others.)

Mr. CURTIS, of Connecticut: Mr. President General, I arise to a point of order. We are here to receive these invitations, but when it comes to the selection of place, I think there is a clause in our Constitution which is to the effect that the decision of the matter is in the hands of the Trustees of the Society, and if I am correct in that, the speeches on the subject advocating a decision might be made to that Board rather than to take up the time of this Convention.

The PRESIDENT: In the absence of objection I will consider it the sense of this Congress that these various invitations be referred to the new Board of Trustees for their consideration.

Dr. GUYER: If it is in order, I think it would be proper that the Society should acknowledge the receipt of these invitations and for the Convention to express its thanks, and I make a motion to that effect.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT GENERAL.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: We have now reached the point in the proceedings where we are ready for the election of officers for the ensuing year. In the absence of objection I shall hold that to be the present order of business, and nominations for the office of President General will now be in order.

Mr. CURTIS: I offer a motion that nominating speeches be limited to five minutes.

(Motion seconded.)

Judge STOCKBRIDGE: With regard to the nomination for the President General, it seems to me that it is hardly fair to place that limit. I trust the gentleman will make the motion to apply to all speeches after that, after nominations for the Presidency General.

Mr. CURTIS: I accept that proposition.

(Motion as amended carried.)

Prof. WICKES, of New York: Mr. President General and Compatriots—The story runs that a witty citizen who had suffered both personal and political losses by a change of administration, remarked, "Single misfortunes never come alone." So with me, single misfortunes did not come alone. Nay, they doubled upon me in such fashion that I have not been able during the last three years to attend the sessions of the National Congress and meet this choice body of men. Indeed I am glad to be back here again where I have longed to be during the three years gone by! I think it is equally true that not only do single misfortunes never come alone, but in my experience single good fortunes never come alone! So, I have at least two good fortunes to-day; the one is that I am able to discharge a very sacred duty by saying just a word in memory of a former President General of this organization, who has now gone to the great world beyond, Walter Seth Logan! (Applause.) A man of ardent patriotism, of undimmed loyalty and of great high purpose in this patriotic organization; one that stood "four square to all the winds of Heaven that blow." And the second good fortune of mine is, that I may say a few words in behalf of one who was closely allied in work, and closely akin in loyalty to Walter Seth Logan, one who has been thrice honored as President of the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, William Allen Marble. (Applause.) The difference between William Allen Marble and Julius Caesar is very great. (Laughter.) You all know that Mark Antony thrice presented a kingly crown to Julius Caesar, which he did thrice refuse. The Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution thrice presented the presidency of the Empire State Society to William Allen Marble, and he did not reject it, but accepted it. (Applause.) He is a man of affairs in the great bustling City of New York. He is a man of tact, knowing well the temper of men. He is a man of experience, resourceful. He is a man of high purpose agreeing in one thing with Julius Caesar, "I am as constant as the northern star of whose true fixed and resting quality there is no fellow in the firmament." Compatriots, things have changed very greatly within the past half century. I remember well as a lad that I used to ride now and then upon a rude sort of a sled, called a "stone boat." But now they have boats of stone that sail up and down the river Rhine, and whosoever will pay the fare may ride. And this change which has taken place in the uses of common stone has taken place also in the uses of Marble.

(Applause.) More than three centuries ago Shakespeare relates in the play of Henry VIII that Cardinal Wolsey bewailed the fact that he must sleep in dull, cold marble, where no mention of him more must be heard of. But in the "Winters Tale," the lovely Perdita, awaiting the command, "Wake music! Strike! Be stone no more!" stepped out of the dull, cold marble, and became a warm, breathing, beautiful personality! In something the same way, I take it, the fighting blood of the Marbles stepped out into life and into the fight for our freedom and independence in the time of the American Revolution. No "dull, cold marble," but living, breathing marble, infused with the spirit of a lofty patriotism. And that spirit, "bequeathed from sire to son," is in William Allen Marble to-day. And that is why I am here to speak his name, because he still has that spirit. He has, moreover, as the poet tells us, "A heart that most enamors us, wax to receive, and marble to retain." (Laughter.) And if you choose him as your President, as I know you will have the grace and good sense to do, you will find that he is like "wax to receive" any helpful hint that may come to him from any member of this great organization. You will find him open to all genial influences, a man of humor, a man of song, a lover of story, a patriot sincere, a man of music! And not only that, but you will find him receptive of all the civic lessons that are coming to us every day and hour. Living in the great City of New York, where great questions are constantly springing to the front, this man will be found to gather them up, and will listen intently to the great sermons that every day are being preached in our civic life from the pulpits of our universal humanity. You will find him open, also, not only to civic lessons, but to all remedial measures that are necessary for the good of this great organization; all those measures that should come to pass, in order that this organization, strong as it is, may be made much stronger still. So that everything of that sort that is needed will come within his purview; and you shall find, with his optimistic spirit, that he will be one that will give the doughnut to the optimist and leave the hole for the pessimist. (Laughter and applause.) Yes, but do not be deceived. Although this man "is wax to receive," he is still "Marble to retain." You will find him retaining his pride of ancestry! You will find him retaining it, on the paternal side, in the fighting Marbles and the daredevil Putnams! And on the other side, in the fine, sweet, melodious and peace-loving sanctities of his Quaker parentage! You will find him also not only retaining a pride of ancestry, but retaining a love for freedom—that which is the heritage of the Saxon race. God forbid that ever we get away from that lofty idea of freedom for all Americans! You will find him retaining also, if I mistake not, a zeal for loyalty, which need not necessarily be loyalty on the field of battle—for loyalty to truth is sealed in many ways—in the closet as well as on the field. You will find him retaining also not only a zeal for loyalty, but a desire for service, that noblest thing that man can do. You remember how, in the olden, golden days of long ago, Shakespeare said of Adam, in "As You Like It," that the old servant lived at a time when "duty sweats for service, not for need." And this man will not do things for reward—except that reward which comes to every man who in the light that God gives him does his duty, feeling that he owes a service to humanity. This man also will retain an enthusiasm for truth, for which this organization lives, and when that spirit goes out of it, it will be dead indeed. This man has an enthusiasm to know the truth, to do the truth, and that, in political life as well as in spiritual life, will make men free indeed. I am glad to be here this morning because this is an audience representing the manhood of the Sons of the American Revolution. But that does not relieve us, compatriots, from care and from responsibilities. Nay, it imposes upon us a greater obligation—to stand by, and adhere to, all those principles of our earlier history on which our forefathers built as on solid rock. The Declaration of Independence, is it dead? No, living. The great principles that went into the Federal Constitution, are they dead? No, alive. And this organization should breathe through that Constitution all the spirit of loyalty and patriotism it can muster. And now, I harp back to good old Michael Angelo, and that fine old saying of his, "The more the marble wastes, the more the statue grows." If our Marble, from excess of toil, wastes away that tall form of his (which Heaven forbid), still all the time the statue, the Sons of the American Revolution, will grow! and while there wastes away the royal spirit of aristocracy, there will grow the republican spirit of America. (Applause.) While we have been wont to hear much about manifest destiny, we shall grow more into a spirit of manifest duty. The progress of the years will sweep us away, but the spirit of youth must ever remain in this great organization. So it is that while the Marble wastes, we shall grow by means of it. Our President General said in his graceful response to Mayor Whitlock: "We shall set up a white stone here in memory of the fine hospitality that we have had." Good! But why not also erect a statue of living Marble (laughter and applause), which, like that statue of Memnon which gave forth music when it was touched by the rays of the rising sun, shall, in these modern days, when touched by any loving ray of helpfulness from any Son of the Revolution, emit the music of the union! of the glorious Stars and Stripes! of dear America, over which hangs to-day a larger patch of blue sky than over any country under God's Heaven! Compatriots, it gives me pleasure to nominate for President General of the Sons, William Allen Marble, the breathing, pulsing patriot, citizen, friend, lover of all that is good! And though he should waste to a shadow under duty and service, still there will come to the Sons of the American Revolution, a real, heroic statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World." (Applause.)

Dr. GUYER: I want to say amen to every word Prof. Wickes has said, and on behalf of Colorado second the nomination of Compatriot Marble. (Applause.)

Mr. CURTIS: Mr. President General, I am very glad that resolution of mine didn't shorten that speech of Prof. Wickes, and in behalf of Connecticut, sir, I want to second that nomination.

Mr. BATES, of Michigan: In behalf of Michigan, we want to second the nomination of Mr. Marble.

Major VEALE: And Pennsylvania wishes to second the nomination and do it with the same love and the same fervor and the same spirit in which the nomination has been made. (Applause.)

Dr. PARKER: Massachusetts wishes to second the nomination also.

Judge ATWATER: New Jersey wishes to second the nomination of Mr. Marble as President General.

Mr. DEWEY: Vermont knows when it sees a good piece of marble. (Laughter and applause.) Vermont seconds the nomination of Mr. Marble.

Admiral BAIRD: The District of Columbia desires to also second that nomination.

Mr. THRUSTON: As a representative of the South I will say that we have some marble there and on behalf of Kentucky I desire to second the nomination of Mr. Marble.

Mr. HYDE: On behalf of the State of Maryland it has been our good fortune to know, not on a single gathering of the Sons, but for many successive years, William Allen Marble. No man in this whole organization has ranked higher; no man has been more ready to tender of his strength, of his endeavor and self-sacrifice, and Maryland most heartily seconds the nomination of William Allen Marble. (Applause.)

Colonel BLISS: In behalf of the Society of the State of Illinois, I beg to second the nomination of Mr. Marble.

Mr. POMEROY: Ohio desires to emphatically endorse the nomination of William Allen Marble.

Mr. WENTWORTH: The Iowa Society wishes to pay its tribute of appreciation and affection and seconds the nomination of Mr. Marble.

Mr. DIX: Indiana takes great pleasure in seconding the nomination of Mr. Marble.

Mr CURTIS, of Connecticut: Mr. President General, I move you, sir, that the nomination now be closed and the Secretary General be instructed to cast one ballot for Mr. Marble.

(Motion seconded.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Is there any objection to that motion. If not, it will be considered the sense of the Congress and the Secretary General is directed to deposit one ballot for Mr. William Allen Marble, of New York, as our next President General. (Applause.)

(Secretary General deposits ballot.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: Compatriots, you have made unanimous choice of Mr. William Allen Marble, of New York, as your next President General, and I want to appoint a committee of three of our honored Past Presidents General Greeley, Stockbridge and McClary, to wait upon Mr. Marble, notify him of his election and request his immediate presence before the Congress. (Applause.)

(President General elect Marble escorted to the platform by committee amid applause.)

PRESIDENT GENERAL ELECT MARBLE: Mr. President General and fellow delegates in the National Congress of the Sons of the American Revolution—Words fail to express the appreciation that I have in the honor that you have bestowed upon me. These are among the proudest moments of my life, and there are three special causes for that pride. In the first instance, it is because I am one of the younger members of the Society, so far as my connection with the organization is concerned. When that loved and lovable Compatriot of the Empire State Society, whom we all love, William J. Warren, urged me to join the Empire State Society, most of the gentlemen present were then veterans in the service. And a second cause for pride is the fact that of the two ancestors from whose Revolutionary service I claim admission to this Society, neither was promoted beyond the ranks of the field, while you who have elected me to the Presidency of this organization are most of you men who are descendants from commissioned officers. There is a third reason for my pride and that is the fact that for the first time in the history of your Society you have left the titled men, the men of prominence, men who have served the State, men who have served on the bench, men who have served in the army and navy, and you have come down into the ranks and picked out a business man. A business man with a name which has no title at either end. It simply stands as it is. I take it to mean that having elected a business man that the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for 1910 mean business. If that is the case, compatriots, you have a business man at your head who here and now pledges himself and his whole effort to make the year 1910 the most successful year in the history of the Sons of the American Revolution. (Applause.) And I now pledge to every State Society and Chapter represented here that if during the coming year either by my presence or by my pen I can aid the work in your own locality, you have but to command me. Gentlemen, I thank you. (Applause.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next business in order is the election of five Vice-Presidents General. Nominations are in order.

ELECTION OF VICE-PRESIDENTS GENERAL AND OTHER OFFICERS.

The Congress then proceeded to the election of five Vice-Presidents General. The following nominations were made and seconded: Commander John H. Moore, U. S. N., of District of Columbia; Mr. R. M. Sims, of California; Mr. William T. Dewey, of Vermont; Mr. R. C. Ballard Thruston, of Kentucky; Dr. Clarkson N. Guyer of Colorado; Col. Samuel E. Bliss, of Illinois; Mr. George Oscar Dix, of Indiana. Tellers were then appointed: Mr. Bates, of Michigan; Mr. Cole, of Missouri; and Mr. Brothwell, of Connecticut. The ballots were counted with the following result: 101 ballots cast, of which Moore received 100, Thruston 98, Dewey 93, Sims 84, Bliss 68, Dix 44, Guyer 27, Darling 2 and the five highest were thereupon declared duly elected.

In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, the rank of the Vice-Presidents General was decided by lot, resulting in the following order: Thruston, Dewey, Moore, Bliss, Sims.

Nominations were made for other officers and the unanimous ballot of the Congress being cast in each case, the following were declared duly elected: Secretary General and Registrar General, A. Howard Clark; Treasurer General, John H. Burroughs; Historian General, David L. Pierson; Chaplain General, Rev. John Timothy Stone, D. D.

ELECTION OF TRUSTEES.

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The next is the election of the Board of Trustees, and the Secretary General will call the roll of the States.

SECRETARY GENERAL: I will read first the names of those States that have submitted nominations under the rule of the Constitution and then the names of Presidents of State Societies that have not submitted names and are, therefore, to be elected. States that have nominated are as follows: (Reads names.) That completes the list of nominees by the States. The names of the Presidents of the State Societies, where nominations have not been submitted, are as follows: (Reads names.)

Colonel GUTHRIE, of Pennsylvania: Mr. President General, I move that the Secretary of the Congress be authorized to cast the ballot of the Society for the names nominated by the State Societies as their representatives on the Board of Trustees, and for the Presidents of each State Society failing to make such nomination to constitute the Board of Trustees of this Society.

(Motion seconded and carried.)

The PRESIDENT GENERAL: The ballot is cast and I declare the gentlemen elected on the Board of Trustees for the ensuing year.

Whereas, The Constitution of this Society under Article II, recites that among the objects of the Society is the following: "To maintain and extend the institution of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble to the Constitution of our country and the injunction of Washington in his farewell address to the American people."

Be it Resolved, That the President General of this Society is hereby instructed to appoint a committee of five to take under advisement some plan of work which shall carry out the purposes of the Society, as above expressed, to the end that the Society shall interest itself in matters of present-day importance, and by such work attract large numbers to membership.
